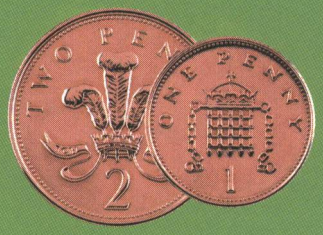
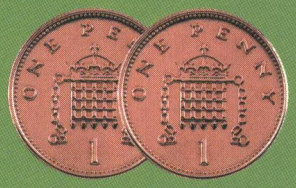
ntl's 3-2-1 plan ends confusion over call charges.



weekdays
(per minute, all standard calls, national or local)



weekday evenings
(per minute, all standard calls, national or local)

weekends
(per minute, all standard calls, national or local)

With our 3-2-1 telephone service,* you know exactly how much all your calls will cost: 3p a minute during weekdays, 2p a minute on weekday evenings and 1p a minute all weekend. (All calls are subject to a 3.5p connection charge.)

This applies to both local and national calls, so you can call the other end of the country for the same price as calling the other end of the road.

Switching to 3-2-1 is easy. As you already have our cable TV service, all we need to do is install a phone connection. You can even keep all your existing features, like 1471, Voicemail and Call Waiting.†

But here's the best bit – as a valued TV customer, we'll give you your phone line at no extra charge. That should save you a few pennies. Call today to switch to the simplest phone service around. You'll find it makes perfect sense.

Ricky, by Royle command

Ricky Tomlinson will not be celebrating Christmas with a glass of fizz. He can't stand the stuff. Sainsbury's mild is his tipple, indeed he insists on carrying it with him to every television awards ceremony, of which there have been plenty since The Royle Family was born. Never mind Jamie Oliver. Sainsbury's could do worse than make Tomlinson the face of its marketing strategy. That is, if it wants a face like Tomlinson's, a face not so much lived-in as evicted-from, with its epic WC Fields nose (a living reminder, he says, that you shouldn't pick a spot).

For Tomlinson's alter ego, Jim Royle, Christmas is much the same as every other day of the week, only more so. For Tomlinson, however, the opportunity to put his feet up comes but once a year. He is one of Britain's hardest-working actors, making it all the more ironic that he is the spitting image – not to mention bodily functions other than spitting – of Britain's laziest man. He claims to have much in common with Jim. 'Oh yeah, I always moan about the phone and the leccy bill,' he informs me. He certainly has Jim's acerbic wit, saying of Brookside, where he made his name as shop steward Bobby Grant: 'We've had killer bugs, sieges and bodies under the patio. All we need to do is find Shergar and Hitler and we've got the full gamut.' And, like Jim, he was brought up in a home where money was scarce.

But those who know him say he is the antithesis of Jim, generous both with his money and his time. He is endearingly diligent about dealing with his ever-increasing fan mail, sitting down for hours every weekend composing personal replies. And for years he has dropped everything to spend one night a week at the home of an elderly neighbour in Liverpool, Eddie Ross, playing enthusiastic games of Scrabble.

Charlie's higher ground

Christmas for Charlie Dimmock used to represent a brief break from working at the garden centre next to her house. Now it means an even more yearned-for rest from the hectic business of making television programmes, of book-signings, of personal appearances, of celebrity. Still, her new lifestyle has its advantages. For one thing, it pays rather better. 'And I have lovely soft hands now, I even have vague nails,' she tells me, with that slight antipodean twang left over from the year she spent apple-picking in New Zealand. But in many respects, she looks forward to resuming her old life. 'I do get fed up with the travelling,' she says. 'It sounds glamorous, but my dad, who worked for BP, used to say that he didn't like it and now I understand why. Nice hotel rooms and smart restaurants lose their appeal when you're craving mashed potato with onion gravy.'

She doesn't crave home cooking in front of the telly, though, because she doesn't have one. So she won't be cuddling up with TCM's The Wizard of Oz on Christmas Eve, and nor will she be working off her Christmas pud in the garden, because she doesn't have one of those, either. 'If I did it would be an absolute tip because I just don't have the time,' she says. But if she did have the time, what would be her ideal garden? She sighs: 'I'd like a formal garden, a pond, a small conservatory, and lots of herbaceous borders.' While that remains a distant dream, how, I wonder, will she relax over the festive period? 'Probably by heading off on a long walk. I love seeing plants growing in their natural habitat.'

Her other passion is for garden wildlife, the subject of a forthcoming new series. 'Back gardens are a huge wildlife resource,' she says, with trademark enthusiasm. 'Anything that flowers in the late autumn or early spring is very good for butterflies and moths, and there is a statistic which says that if one in ten people put up a nesting-box there will be a 30 per cent increase in the birdsong population.'

So that's Charlie's Christmas tip. After all, what could be more Christmasy than the twitter of a robin?

JR exerts her influence

Get this. Joanne Kathleen Rowling, a single mum and former comprehensive school teacher from Chepstow, was recently estimated by Entertainment Weekly magazine to be the fifth most influential person in American popular culture, rubbing shoulders with the likes of Steven Spielberg and Tom Cruise.

That makes her twice as influential as Tom Hanks (tenth on the list) and way ahead of Madonna (31st). Meanwhile, Forbes magazine placed her second on its list of last year's top British earners, netting £25m. Only The Rolling Stones could top that.

The catalyst for JK Rowling's extraordinary leap to almost unimaginable fame and fortune is, of course, her fictional wizard schoolboy Harry Potter, who was conceived in the prosaic surroundings of a delayed London-bound train from Manchester and whose adventures have broken publishing records the world over. Harry is, she says, pure fiction. But his friend Hermione was based on a real person. 'And that person is me,' she says.

Björn to win

This is the age of the tribute band. Take Abba. There are dozens of Abba tribute bands in Britain alone, and doubtless plenty more in America and Australia, not to mention Sweden. Without doubt the most popular of these is the rather brilliantly named Björn Again, born – or rather björn – in Melbourne, Australia, in 1988. Incredibly, Björn Again can command concert fees of up to £150,000, giving their performance of Money, Money, Money an extra dimension. If you want them for your birthday party, bear in mind that they filled the Royal Albert Hall two years ago. Abba themselves only played the Albert Hall once.

Still, barring an unexpected reunion of Agnetha, Björn, Benny and Frida, Björn Again are the next best thing. And I can testify to that, having seen them live at Wembley Stadium last year [that line-up is pictured]. I was there with my daughter to see the Spice Girls and Björn Again were the support act, a masterstroke by the concert promoter, who rightly calculated that thousands of Spice fans would be accompanied by their Abba-generation parents. Björn Again went down a storm, to the huge satisfaction of their co-founder, co-owner and co-manager Rod Leissle. I invite him to explain the popularity of the band. 'We pay great attention to detail. We really study what they did, and in some ways try to improve on what they did.'

In 12 years, Leissle tells me, there have been 20 different line-ups. 'One of the Agnethas left because she was pregnant, but came back afterwards. And one of the girls was in Coronation Street.' That's Jo Rowden, one of the Fridas, who played Paula Shipley in the soap earlier this year. Have the original Abba seen Björn Again? 'Björn and Benny saw us in Stockholm in 1992. They couldn't believe it,' he says.

Explosive drama

With a plot that deals with family secrets, kidnapping and terrorism, Sky One's forthcoming drama The Bombmaker promises plenty of action and intrigue. Pauline McLeod talks to its director and star

YOU'RE turning in for the night, you pop your head around the nursery door and the bed is empty. Your child is not in it. Not only that, this small, vulnerable and precious being is nowhere in the house. What would you do? What would you do if words such as 'terrorism', 'explosives' and 'kidnapping' – hardly part of your day-to-day vocabulary – were suddenly to become the framework of a once-happy household? What would you do if you discovered your other half has such a secretive past, it threatens to blow lives apart?

These are the dilemmas facing Andrea and Martin Hayes, played by Dervla Kirwan and Mark Womack, in The Bombmaker – an emotive, cutting edge, two-part drama for Sky One, shot on location in Ireland and London and airing early in the New Year – when their seven-year-old daughter, Katie, is abducted.

Explosive stuff, indeed, from producer Paul Knight and writer Stephen Leather, who also delivered hard-hitting, highly charged material with The Stretch, starring Leslie Grantham and Anita Dobson.

In the eye of the storm: Andrea (Dervla Kirwan) worries for the safety of little Katie (Caira Lyons)

Filming a tricky, nail-biting scene with Mark and an MI5 big cheese played by Samantha Bond (Miss Moneypenny in The World Is Not Enough), on the seventh floor of an office building in the City, director Graham Theakston (The Politican's Wife, Seeing Red) explains: 'I am not as interested in doing big spectacles as I am in telling very good stories.

'This is emotionally engaging, there are a lot of what-if situations. Most parents say they'd do anything to save their child but here is a predicament where, by saving one person, there is the possibility of losing a lot of lives.

'But whereas you have to believe the terrorists know how to make a bomb, this isn't a drama-documentary. Although you see all the ingredients needed to make one, it is not explicit about the process of bomb-making.'

Mark, who has a four-year-old son and will become a father again next year by partner Samantha Janus (the pair met when they co-starred in Liverpool One), says: 'I tried putting myself in Martin's situation. Would I ever pull a gun and kill?

'If my little boy's life was threatened I guess I would. But whatever he does, it's out of a total act of desperation.'

● A recent poll on the Cable Guide website (cableguide.co.uk), asking which animated series you prefer, revealed the true champion of the cartoon world. Steaming ahead of the competition was The Simpsons with over 66 per cent of your votes. South Park was runner-up with 17 per cent and King of the Hill rolled in last after Futurama and Beavis and Butt-Head with four per cent.

● Make a date in your diary for the fourth annual Cable Guide Cable TV Awards! You'll be getting the chance in the New Year to vote for all your favourites in time for the glittering awards ceremony at London's Hilton next April.

● Expect more glamour, hype and buzz with next year's British Academy Film Awards. To be shown live from Leicester Square in February by Sky, the stars are expected to be out in force, and as the event will be held four weeks before the Oscars it'll be a real teaser for Hollywood's celebrations.

● Who ever said your school days are the best? Life for junior high schooler Ginger Foutley is far from simple as she tackles playground problems and classroom capers galore in the new animation series As Told by Ginger. From the creators of the popular Rugrats, this European premiere starts on Nickelodeon in January.

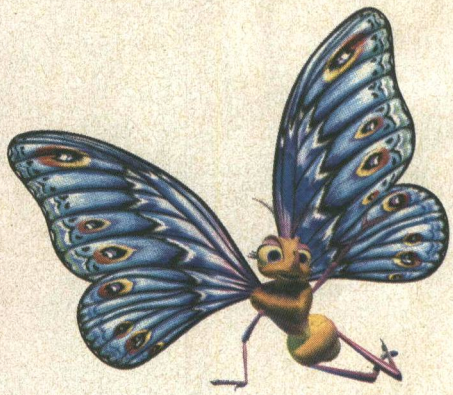
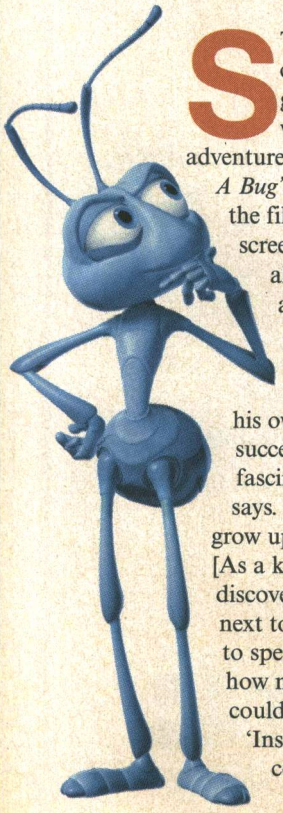
Insects appeal



They are the most unlikely movie heroes – their real-life counterparts usually make our skin crawl. And yet the insect stars of A Bug's Life helped turn the animated adventure into a huge box office hit. The film's co-creator, Joe Ranft, talks to Hilary Bonner about treating creepy-crawlies with compassion



STATE-OF-THE-ART computer animation, a great voice cast and a wonderful sense of adventure helped make Disney's A Bug's Life a huge hit. But the film's co-creator and screenwriter, Joe Ranft, who also helps out with animation chores, as well as providing the voice of caterpillar clown Heimlich, has his own explanation about its success. 'Children are fascinated by insects,' he says. 'It's only when you grow up that you lose that. [As a kid], I remember first discovering bugs in this yard next to our house. We used to spend hours trying to see how many different sorts we could find.

'Insects lend themselves to computer animation much more than furry organic things. Computers deal better with hard plastic shiny things. Insects are a perfect match because of their exoskeleton, the beautiful iridescence of their shells and the transparency of their wings. When you get down low and you look at the world as they see it, the leaves and blades of grass are translucent. It's like they live in a world with stained glass all around them. That's the kind of look we wanted to get in this film.'

Joe dreamed up the idea of A Bug's Life over lunch with co-screenwriter Andrew Stanton. They began talking about Aesop's fable The Ant and the Grasshopper, in which a starving grasshopper descends on a family of ants and begs for something to eat. The grasshopper admits that he has spent the summer months idling away his time playing music. Hearing this, the hard-working ants send him on his way and suggest that he spend the winter dancing. The moral to Aesop's cautionary tale is plain to see: 'There is a time to work and a time to play.'

Stanton and Raft discussed what might have developed if the grasshopper, being much bigger than the ants, had decided to just take the food. The duo's active imaginations began racing and they took their fledgling idea to director John Lasseter of Pixar Animation Studios, with whom they had both worked on the animated blockbuster Toy Story.

Lasseter went for the idea at once – but his joining the project was only the start of what turned out to be a long and complex production process. 'It took us almost five years to get A Bug's Life on screen,' says Ranft. 'We were two years in animation, and during the story reel process, 27,600 drawings were produced.'

Attention to detail was everything. Sixty animators worked full-time on the picture, each drawing just three to five seconds of completed animation in a really good week.

The film was made in a widescreen format, and the production team saw it not so much as a cartoon movie but more as a sweeping, David Lean-style epic unfolding in a vast natural setting.

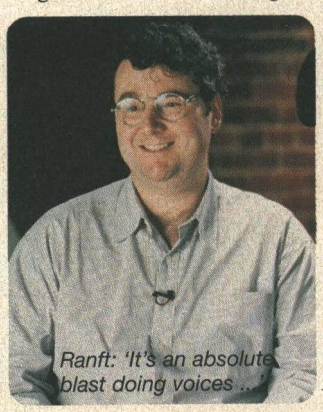
A special Bugcam was developed. That's a tiny video camera attached to the end of a stick that was rolled and dragged through the local flora and vegetation and under leaves and grass to help the team to see things as a bug might.

But in spite of the film-makers' fascination with their subject, one of the biggest challenges they faced was to remove the creepiness from their leading characters and create personalities the audience would relate to and care about. Not an easy task with creepy-crawlies.

The hero ants were given two arms and two legs instead of the more accurate six appendages, which, it was felt, would have made them less appealing. The villainous grasshoppers, meanwhile, were given an extra set of limbs to make them more menacing.



Ranft: 'It's an absolute blast doing voices ...'

Nonetheless, a tremendous amount of research into bug anatomy, locomotion and behaviour went into the film. Specialist documentaries were studied, the designers and animators were lectured by leading entomologists, bug specimens – both live and preserved – were brought into the studio to be observed, and even a live praying mantis was acquired so that the artists and technicians could study it for accuracy and inspiration.

As with traditional, hand-drawn cartoons, the characters for computer-animated features are first conceived on paper. Approved designs are then either sculpted into three-dimensional models or created directly within the computer.

Toy Story, also a Disney-Pixar co-production, was the first totally computer-animated movie, but A Bug's Life took the process much further. One of many innovations was that hair could be added and placed wherever needed. For instance, the character of Gypsy the moth has a collar around her neck boasting 15,000 hairs.

The story of A Bug's Life is centred on Ant Island, where each summer a gang of greedy grasshoppers descend upon the ant colony to demand a hefty portion of the industrious ants' hard-earned harvest, and generally make their lives miserable. Our ant hero, Flik (voiced by Dave Foley), takes it upon himself to call in outside help, but mistakenly hires an unemployed troupe of bug performers from a second-rate circus.

Mayhem follows: 'In an animated movie you must never lose sight of the humour,' comments Ranft.

Yet the making of such films remains a deadly serious business. In the case of A Bug's Life a major character change was executed half-way through filming because the team felt the original lead ant didn't work well. It was a huge gamble.

'We originally had the ants led by an outsider red ant called Red,' recalls Ranft. 'About a year into storyboarding we faced up to the fact that Red was not a success. We realised that what we needed was a character who rose from the ranks of the community and was fighting to save his family. So we turned the whole thing around, got rid of Red and invented Flik. The cost was enormous in terms of extra work and extra money, but it had to be done.'

Ranft began working for Disney as an animator in 1980 and has worked on some of the biggest films the studio has produced in the ensuing couple of decades. More recently, however, he has also discovered a talent for voice-over work. He was the voice of the binoculars in Toy Story and in A Bug's Life provides the heavily Germanic voice of Heimlich the caterpillar.

'It's an absolute blast doing voices,' he says. 'So much more immediate than drawing. Heimlich is a big Bavarian caterpillar who loves to eat. He wants to live in Oktoberfest all the time. It was great fun being him.'

Other voices are supplied by stars such as American Beauty Oscar-winner Kevin Spacey, Frasier's David Hyde Pierce, and the late Roddy McDowall. Crowd shots involved nearly 800 ants, and all the vast capabilities of modern computer technology were stretched to the limit. Most important of all, says bug lover Ranft, was the spirit of the film and the success of its aim to make creepy-crawlies sympathetic – to turn them into creatures to care about.

And Joe Ranft has met plenty of fans who claim the film was nothing less than a life-changing experience: 'People frequently tell me that since seeing A Bug's Life they've been unable ever again just to wipe out a colony of ants without a second's thought.'

WIN!

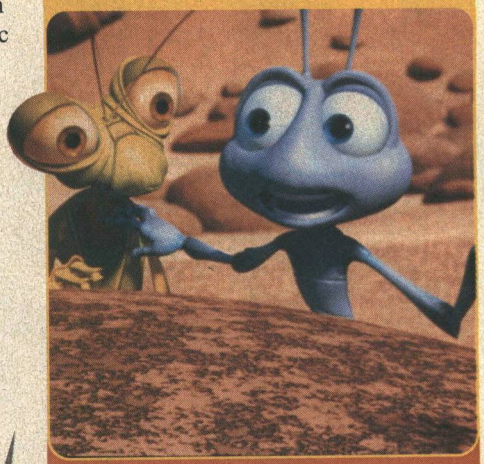
Disney Channel

To celebrate the British television premiere of A Bug's Life, Disney Channel is offering one lucky reader the chance to attend an exclusive screening of the movie at London's Planet Hollywood. You can take along three of your friends, plus a guardian, to watch your favourite Disney film. Then you'll meet the Disney Channel presenters and join them in a special lunch!
Ten runners-up will each win a fantastic Disney Channel goody bag.

For a chance to win, answer this question:

What type of insect is Flik?

A) A grasshopper
B) A spider
C) An ant



Send your answer on a postcard, with your name, address and telephone number, to Cable Guide/A Bug's Life competition, PO BOX 2176, London W1A 5TW. The first 11 correct entries drawn at random will win. Closing date 31 December 2000. Full competition rules on page 216. Travel costs to and from the screening will be covered by Disney Channel.

Kennedy soap centre

ITV2's bubbly presenter Emma Kennedy has the best job – she gets to be rude about the shows she loves. Interview: Pauline McLeod

DECK the halls with boughs of holly, and don't forget the mistletoe, either. A time of peace and goodwill to all men? Not in the land of Soap Fever, it's not.

If you hadn't noticed, there's a television ratings war out there, with no sign of a cease-fire in the run-up to Christmas. There's nothing that ups the ante more than disgraceful behaviour – particularly when the words 'rat' and 'love triangle' are at the heart of the gossip – on our favourite soap operas. No wonder Emma Kennedy, who recently took over as presenter of ITV2's weekly show Soap Fever, is gleefully sharpening her claws, dreaming of soapsters behaving badly this Yuletide in Weatherfield and Walford.

If truth be known, Emma is such a loyal fan of them all, that not even Coronation Street's Gail should take offence that Emma hopes the soon-to-be ex-Mrs Platt will be given a 'makeover' in her Christmas stocking. 'She's miserable. I don't blame Martin for leaving her,' says Emma, witheringly.

'But EastEnders is the soap that takes the biscuit when it comes to lowering the mood. Just when we're feeling nice and happy, they crush us,' sighs Emma. 'I think the Slaters are good for the Square because they're rotten and common. Kat is a bed on legs and is going to work her way around the Square.'

Emma, who cheerfully admits to watching ten hours' worth of soaps a week 'all in the name of research', shakes her head gravely while trying to keep a straight face. At 32, she's already packed one heck of a punch into a life which led her up the show business path only five years ago.

The daughter of teachers from Hertfordshire, she loved school, was 'disgustingly' good at everything and had planned to study history at Oxford University. 'But I got glandular fever, had to take a year off because I was so ill – and everything changed.'

She changed courses and colleges. 'I'd been at a modern comprehensive, and had always wanted to study at an old college. Eventually, I went to the 13th-century St Edmund Hall.' She gained an MA in English, was also president of the Oxford Revue and after spending six months in America – she's currently writing a novel based on her escapades there – returned to London to study law for two years.

'I'd always had a strong work ethic and thought being in show business wasn't a proper job. I practised as a solicitor for a while but had this nagging feeling inside of me, which was to perform and do comedy.'

And she hasn't stopped since. Her work includes Radio 4's Sunday Format, BBC2's documentary spoof People Like Us and presenting Channel 4's The Real Holiday Show and Flatmates.

So, Emma, if the BBC and ITV pit their flagship soaps against each other on Christmas Day, which one will be relegated to the video recorder? 'Strictly speaking, I am supposed to be impartial – a Swiss mum who loves all her children. All I'm going to say is that, at the moment, EastEnders has the tidiest bedroom.'

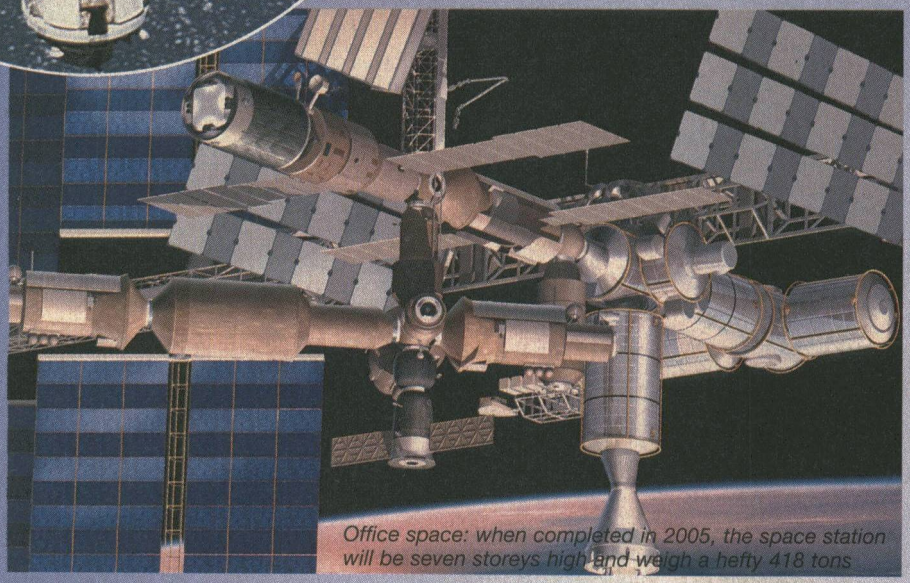
SPACE the final frontier

Resembling a metal dragonfly the size of a football pitch, the International Space Station will house a ground-breaking science laboratory in orbit. Tim Ewbank investigates history in the making



Office space: when completed in 2005, the space station will be seven storeys high and weigh a hefty 418 tons

AS JOBS go, the working conditions aren't too bad. It's a five-day week with weekends off, there will be ample meal breaks with all food provided, the sun will be shining, and there will be opportunities to send regular e-mails home.

High-speed transport to and from work will also be provided, and the best perk of all is that the view from the workplace really will be out of this world – some 354km out in space, in fact.

'For the first time, man will be living and existing somewhere other than on Earth'

That's the set of working conditions awaiting the brave crews due to travel to the International Space Station (ISS), in regular three to six month rotas, in the most exciting and important space development ever.

The expedition's first three-man crew blasted off for the ISS at the end of October, and Dieter Isakhit, space expert for the European Space Agency, is understandably thrilled at the importance of this achievement.

'It's impossible to overstate the historic importance of the moment the first working crew went up to the International Space Station,' he enthuses. 'Life will never be the same again. For the very first time, man will be living and existing somewhere other than on Earth. And space is no longer just a metaphysical or a transcendental place for the human mind – it's part of everyday business.

'It took man a million years to fly an aircraft into the air and the ISS is a first step towards man's capability to live in space. That's why it is so important.'

An extraordinary glimpse into this technological marvel comes in Discovery's Inside the Space Station. The programme is considered of such historic importance, it is being screened almost simultaneously around the world in 150 countries and 32 languages.

The ISS is the result of a collaboration between 16 countries, including America, Russia and the UK, and when work on the largest structure ever built in space is completed in the year 2005, the ISS will be visible to the naked eye and the third brightest object in the night sky.

The programme manager of the European Space Agency, which is responsible for developing the major European contributions to the ISS, is Britain's Frank Longhurst. He says: 'The station is roughly the size of a football pitch and within that are six laboratory modules with each lab the size of a single-decker bus.

'It has a central spine and very large wings that provide the solar power, so I guess you could say it looks a bit like a silver dragonfly.

'What is so exciting is that the ISS gives us the opportunity to do long-term science in orbit and there are real hopes for advance in biological and medical science as well as physics in the sense of materials.'

Work will include developing new, space-grown sources of petrol and testing cancer treatments. 'But it won't be all work and no play for the crews,' says Longhurst, 'although the regime is pretty strict.

'The main duty is work but being in zero G [no gravity] for three months means that the team will have to take care of their health and do exercises every day. But there will be leisure time for reading, sending e-mails to loved ones and, very importantly, for eating, and looking out of the window!'

The cost of the ISS is estimated at around $37bn and involves around 100,000 people. 'We're sending a lot of complex machinery up there,' says Isakhit. 'It costs a lot because you cannot access them easily. So they simply must not fail. On the ISS you can't just send for a technician or simply refuel. Machines up there cannot afford to be inoperable.'

In other words, odd-jobmen need not apply!

Seeing sense

In The Sixth Sense, Olivia Williams found herself at the centre of one of the most startling movie plot twists in recent memory. But, as Garth Pearce discovers, the career of the English actress had its fair share of surprises before she hit the Hollywood big time

OLIVIA WILLIAMS proves there is 'life after death' in Hollywood. Her big chance appeared to have come and gone after she starred opposite Kevin Costner in the apocalyptic adventure The Postman, which fared badly with critics and audiences. However, her performance as Bruce Willis's wife in The Sixth Sense changed everything and set her firmly back on track in Tinseltown.

Judging by what we see on screen, Williams certainly deserved another chance. She turns a role that could have appeared vacuous in the wrong hands into a cornerstone of the entire movie. This supernatural thriller was one of last year's biggest box office hits, and at the centre of its intriguing twists and turns is Olivia Williams.

The 32-year-old boasts an impressive CV that is rich in stage experience – ranging from The Palace, Westcliff-on-Sea, to the Royal Shakespeare Company – and this clearly helped her to banish memories of The Postman's disappointing reception and to get on with the job in hand.

Kevin Costner was so impressed with Williams that he recommended her to Bruce Willis for The Sixth Sense: 'I heard virtually right away that I had got the part,' she recalls. 'Bruce plays a child psychologist with a boy patient who believes that he is seeing dead people. I play Bruce's wife and become involved in a huge twist within the film. The Sixth Sense made me finally accept that this Hollywood thing had happened to me and that I was not going to make just one movie and then go straight back to theatre. Yet I genuinely used to wonder whether I deserved to earn a living out of acting.'

Williams's parents are London lawyers who gave her a stable childhood and she succeeded academically at every turn, including graduating with an English degree from Cambridge University. She was then accepted at the Bristol Old Vic, after enduring auditions reputed to be the toughest in Britain.

'I can't believe I got through the process,' she admits. 'I was surrounded by all these people who had their own lingo and who had been to the National Youth Theatre.'

As with most things, she plays down her degree and education. 'Too much information or an intellectual approach is a serious obstacle in acting,' Williams insists. 'One of the most painful things I learned at the Royal Shakespeare Company was at read-throughs, where a lot of actors had difficulty in reading their lines. When you're sitting in a room with someone who can't really read, an intellectual view would be, "How on Earth am I going to work with this person?" But those are the very people who would knock you off the stage with their ability to act. So I listened and learned about their route into a [script].'

Her step-up to the big screen came via television, when she played Jane Fairfax in the acclaimed TV adaptation of Jane Austen's Emma. One of her small-screen career highlights was a cameo appearance in an episode of the hit US sitcom Friends. 'I played a bridesmaid to Helen Baxendale, the girl who married Ross,' she explains. 'Courteney Cox was the other bridesmaid and we were in matching skin-tight red dresses. She is five foot four and skinny and I looked like a double-decker bus!'

Williams displays a similar sense of humour on the subject of on-screen nudity. 'If I get a script and agree to a scene, then I get on and do it,' she says. 'As a perfectly normal woman who – touch wood – hasn't suffered from an eating disorder, I feel that if Hollywood is prepared to put my cellulite on screen it is my duty to show it to anyone who cares to look at what a normal 32-year-old body looks like these days.'

But there is a shower scene in The Sixth Sense that caused some embarrassment: 'They built a shower which was absolutely tiny,' she says. 'I stepped in and they had to get a couple of the film crew to squeeze the door shut behind me. I just thought, "Oh, my God, I am going to look like some sort of wrestler!"'

At present Olivia's keeping a careful eye on her future, but things are definitely on the up for the native Londoner: she has a number of films in the pipeline, including The Body, alongside Spanish sex god Antonio Banderas.

'I wished away my twenties, thinking that acting is a stupid job and I wanted to be settled with a house and family,' she says. 'On my 30th birthday, I decided to move the points on the tracks and have just got on with it.'

And got on with it she has.

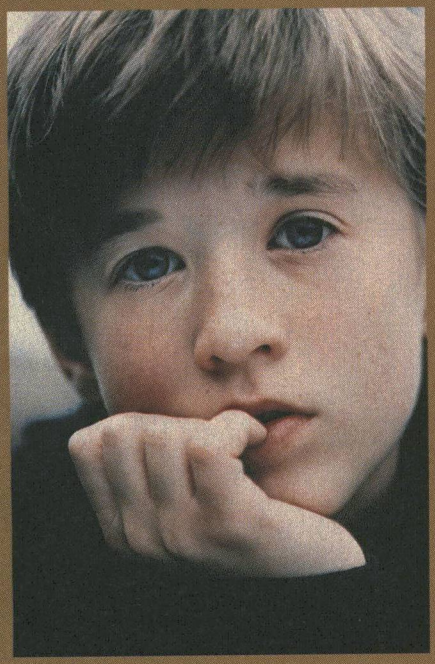
Haley's career comet



A little guy with a big future: Haley Joel Osment's performance in The Sixth Sense attracted the attention of Steven Spielberg

On the strength of his performance in The Sixth Sense, Haley Joel Osment is destined for a bright future. But the star insists fame won't go to his head

The runaway success of The Sixth Sense came as a shock to Haley Joel Osment, the 12-year-old boy who found he could see dead people in the film and earned an Oscar nomination for his troubles.

'It never really felt as if we were doing anything special – until I saw the film,' he recalls. 'I am just a kid, so I really don't know too much about how it all works. It was great though.'

He might only be young, but Osment has appeared in a succession of Hollywood movies, including Forrest Gump, Nora (Sleepless in Seattle) Ephron's Mixed Nuts and director Norman Jewison's fantasy Bogus, alongside Whoopi Goldberg and French star Gérard Depardieu.

But, despite appearing opposite Kevin Spacey in the new drama Pay It Forward, set to be released early next year, and starring in Steven Spielberg's new sci-fi epic AI (artificial intelligence), Osment is keen to remain level-headed.

'I want to have a normal childhood,' he says, in a surprisingly mature manner. 'I have bed-times, house rules and jobs I must do, just like everyone else. I have seen what happens if you get it wrong.' Haley's actor father, Eugene, insists: 'He is under no pressure. The moment he stops enjoying himself, then it ends. Both his mother, Theresa, and myself will support his decision, either way.'

Spotlight on Ben Stiller

While this month's premiere of the sublimely silly superhero spoof Mystery Men boasts a fine ensemble cast, it is Ben Stiller who turns in the best and most identifiable performance as the essentially soft-hearted Mr Furious. In this tale of hilariously inept costumed crime fighters, Stiller again reveals the impeccable sense of comic timing he demonstrated as the likable lead in There's Something About Mary and in his capacity as director of the darkly funny Cable Guy, which starred Jim Carrey and Inspector Gadget himself, Matthew Broderick. Stiller is soon to be seen alongside Robert De Niro in the Stateside smash Meet the Parents.

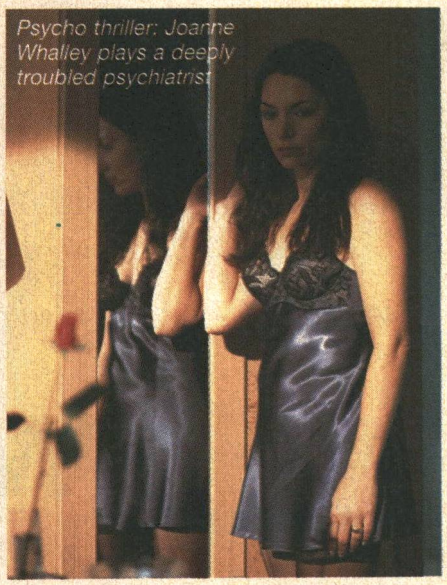
A pause for breath



Psycho thriller: Joanne Whalley plays a deeply troubled psychiatrist

She's gone from soap star to Hollywood star, and now Joanne Whalley is starring in Sky Pictures' dark thriller Breathtaking. But, as she tells Tim Oglethorpe, she's got her feet firmly on the ground

YOU FEAR the worst when you prepare to meet Joanne Whalley. Reports had suggested that the bitter break-up of her marriage to actor Val Kilmer in 1996 had taken a huge physical toll on her.

On top of that, she's just finished shooting an intense psychological drama, Breathtaking, in which her character spends a lot of the time in the throes of mental instability.

So it's with much relief that Whalley, the 36-year-old plumber's daughter from Manchester, is found to be full of laughter and smiles.

'I am fine, generally, but I am feeling knackered,' she admits, bluntly.

Whalley says that being cast as a deeply troubled character is draining, but at the end of the day, she unwinds by spending time with her children, daughter Mercedes, eight, and son Jack, four, from her marriage to Kilmer.

'My children have been with me while I've been working in England, and there is nothing like children to keep you grounded,' she says.

'You come back from a day's filming and they want stuff. You don't have time to remember how tired you feel, no time to be indulgent, when you are busy getting them ice cream and drinks. My kids have saved me time and time again. In life in general, they are the ones who have kept me sane. If I didn't have them, I would probably have gone demented.'

After appearing in several British TV programmes, including Emmerdale Farm, and two excellent mini-series, Edge of Darkness and Dennis Potter's acclaimed The Singing Detective, Whalley came to Hollywood's attention when she played Christine Keeler in Scandal in 1989. Since then, she has starred alongside some of the industry's biggest names, including Liam Neeson, Sean Connery and Bill Murray, to name but a few.

Whalley never speaks publicly about her divorce. Kilmer does see his children, she explains, but she and he now lead completely separate lives.

'The kids are what is important to me now. They are the really special people in my life. They've made everything black and white for me – there are no longer any grey areas. The kids always come first and everything else comes second.'

She has even turned down roles in order to be with them.

'I would never regret saying no to a role because the reason I have done so has always been to be with my children, and there is nothing more important than them, no more valid a reason.'

Whether it's because of this, or because she has endured a troubled private life, it seems fair to say Whalley's career has not lived up to its early promise. Although she's worked steadily since moving to America, major success, critical or commercial, has eluded her. Perhaps Breathtaking will revive interest in her here.

Whalley's character, Dr Caroline Henshaw, has a successful career at Westside Mental Health Unit. Massage parlour worker Sandra (Lorraine Pilkington) enters Westside after she attempts suicide. The two women's lives seem poles apart, but after a consultation, they connect. Caroline's ordered life is shaken as she begins to relive her past.

Whalley says she was able to work on the film by having a tutor for her children in England. The actress is clearly enamoured of parenthood and talks seriously about having more children.

'Having children is the best thing I ever did,' she says.

And is there someone with whom she would like to have children? Whalley giggles and all she will reveal is she is 'single, and as to whether I have someone special in my life, well, never you mind.'

'The kids are what is important to me now. They are the really special people in my life'

KIM NEWMAN ON ...
WAR MOVIES

All this and world war too

Vietnam was the Hollywood war of choice for many years. But in 1998, two tough, star-studded World War II films went into battle at the box office

SOMETIMES it only takes one hit movie to renew an unfashionable genre. Two years ago, after a long spell during which the war film meant Oliver Stone agonising about Vietnam or some pumped-up Stallone clone mowing down hordes of drug dealers, Hollywood rediscovered its favourite conflict, World War II.

The period between 1941 and 1945, when America was in the midst of a war that we in Europe had been fighting since 1939, was also the time of Hollywood's greatest successes and most resolute commitment to patriotic spectacle – whether in gung-ho action, as Errol Flynn and John Wayne laid waste to the Axis, or in the homefront sentiment represented by Greer Garson's Mrs Miniver.

After it was all over, more serious films were made about the lives and deaths of the ordinary GI (A Walk in the Sun) or the unprecedented beastliness of the defeated enemy (Judgment at Nuremberg). Then, despite 1960s hits such as The Dirty Dozen, the war was eclipsed by Vietnam and began to seem like old hat.

But in 1998, two major directors offered epic-scale WWII movies in keeping with A Walk in the Sun, following a whittled-down army from a bloody beachhead into a series of conflicts with an enemy no more terrifying than the simple idea of war itself. They went head to head at the box office and at the Academy Awards, and it might well have been the splitting of votes between Steven Spielberg's Saving Private Ryan, starring Tom Hanks, and Terrence Malick's The Thin Red Line that allowed outside contender Shakespeare in Love to creep through and grab the top honours. Now all the fuss is over, the films can stand or fall on their own merits.

The big trauma of Steven Spielberg's career seems to have been the 1979 box office and critical failure of his war farce 1941. Raised on WWII movies, he keeps returning to the period like a general desperate for victories to wash away the memory of that one defeat. Half of his films are set during the war, with approaches ranging from the happy-go-lucky commercialism of the Indiana Jones movies, through to the Oscars-seeking seriousness of Empire of the Sun, Schindler's List and, now, Saving Private Ryan. A story about a special mission to rescue one private from potential death during the carnage of the Allied invasion of France, this picks up some of the themes of Schindler's List, and tops and tails its narrative with a rerun of the weeping-in-the-graveyard that flawed the earlier film.

There's a syrupy John Williams score and way too much God and country speechifying, but the battle scenes are terrifying, with the loudest bullet spangs ever filmed, and, thanks to hand-held documentary-style camerawork, a real sense of the horrid mess of it all.

The Thin Red Line, the first feature Malick has made in 20 years, is a Pacific War movie from the novel by James Jones and embodies the idea that combat is 'short moments of terror among long stretches of boredom'.

The film includes as many lyrical passages as it does moments of bloody battle. It looks like an American movie, with its sweaty star faces and big effects, but feels more like a European arthouse film, presenting characters mostly as doomed but interesting insects. There are human conflicts (notably the clash between ambitious Nick Nolte and humane Elias Koteas) but as much is mystifying as is explained. It's a tougher film than Saving Private Ryan (that movie's title promises a more-or-less happy ending) but less immediately accessible, with spells of strange delirium rather than punchy dialogue.

IN THE FRAME

TRACY SHAW

What's your favourite film?
The Green Mile. I love anything with Tom Hanks. He always comes up trumps. His co-star [Michael Clarke Duncan] was such a love too. I wanted to mother him.

Who is your favourite actor?
Jodie Foster – most of her films made me want to act. Her and Anthony Hopkins. I used to always look up to Vanessa Redgrave too. I loved Julia. It was an absolutely gruelling film. She had all her hair shaved off in it.

What's your first memory of the cinema?
ET. I can still watch that now and cry. That's because I'm a big, fat softy really. I went with my cousins, and we ate loads of sweeties. That's as exciting as it got then.

What's your favourite weepie?
Somewhere in Time with Christopher Reeve. Not many people know it, but it's a classic. He goes back in time to find his love.

What about your scariest movie moment?
I was absolutely petrified in Deep Blue Sea. That shark was like Jaws on acid. He just kept killing and killing them. It was the suspense. That's much scarier than horror.

What sort of film would you like to act in?
I wouldn't mind doing something by a northern English writer. Something about what's happening up here and contrasts a bit with [my character] Maxine in Coronation Street, who's a bit fluffy round the edges.

Many of the key games of David Gower's career were against Pakistan. He faces his old Test adversaries again as England continue their tour there – but this time it's from the safety of the Sky Sports commentary box.
Interview: Brian Viner

Smooth operator

DAVID IVON GOWER was born on 1 April, which somehow seems hugely apt, for there is impishness in those blue eyes and an apparent inability to take anything too seriously, including – or perhaps especially – himself.

As captain of the England cricket team he was the antithesis of his intense contemporary Graham Gooch, and scored most of his record 8231 Test runs with such languid composure that many observers thought he was hardly trying. The reality, of course, was that he was trying extremely hard.

The same applies to Gower the broadcaster. In the Sky Sports commentary box he appears almost horizontally laid-back, the perfect foil, as so often at the crease, to the more belligerent Ian Botham. But there is steel behind the affable exterior, without which Gower would not have become the fine broadcaster he is. It was a red-letter day for Sky when he joined from the BBC.

We chat in London on the eve of his flight to Islamabad. Coincidentally, Pakistan looms large in his own playing record, for his Test debut, in 1978 at Edgbaston, his Test valedictory, in 1992 at the Oval, and his first match as captain of England, in 1982 at Lord's, were all against Pakistan. He also enjoyed a successful tour there, in 1983-84, scoring big centuries at Faisalabad and Lahore.

Yet Pakistan is not always an easy country to tour, certainly according to Botham, who notoriously suggested that it was a good place to send one's mother-in-law. So what are Gower's tips to the current England party? 'The first thing is to accept conditions off the field, to decide that it is a great place with lovely people,' he says. 'You have to accept that there are things to do that are very different from what you might do here. For instance, I remember a small group of us going to see A Midsummer Night's Dream at the Alhambra Theatre in Lahore, performed by a travelling troupe of English players. It was actually a fun evening.' The idea of Darren Gough whispering to Dominic Cork, 'That's the finest Bottom I've ever seen' seems improbable, at least in the context of them watching A Midsummer Night's Dream together. But I take Gower's point.

'Basically,' he adds, 'I think players need to recognise that they are getting a chance to visit a different culture for three months, and should perhaps make a gentle effort to do a palace or a temple now and then. Because it doesn't matter what sort of novel music system the size of a thimble you have, delivering 100 watts into each ear, it can be very limiting just sitting around. Touring shouldn't just be about cricket.'

> 'I look round and think, "Why am I dressed like this? Look at these flannelled fools"'

Touring can, of course, embrace politics as well as cricket, as Gower himself can testify. Botham's mother-in-law remark, made casually from a hospital bed in England where he was having an operation on an injured knee, rebounded rather forcefully on the 1983-84 tour.

'Even 16 years ago news travelled very quickly,' Gower recalls. 'And they took it very seriously in Pakistan. There were meetings in parliament. In Lahore, the waiters downed tools and refused to serve us. You do have to be careful. They're proud people.'

As is DI Gower. And he has much to be proud of, not least that shedload of runs for his country. I ask which innings gave him the most pleasure? Gower selects his 123 at Sydney in 1991 as 'a gem – I was very proud of that one.' He also picks out an unbeaten 154 at Sabina Park, Jamaica, ten years earlier. 'And there was another good one at The Oval in 1985, when we won the Ashes.' To be exact, he scored 157, having scored a Test-best 215 in the previous match at Edgbaston. Indeed, he totalled 732 runs that series, averaging 81.33. And he was captain to boot! What Nasser Hussain would give for a summer like that. Although, characteristically, Gower insists that Hussain is a better captain than he was. 'He has a far better attitude to communicating with the players,' he says, taking a sip of mineral water. He looks, it must be said, in tip-top physical condition.

Unlike Botham, he's continued to trot out in the occasional charity game. But now he has finally decided to hang up his flannels. 'The truth is that ... I ... do ... not ... like ... playing ... any ... more,' he explains, labouring each word for effect.

'I am obviously not as good as I was, and I do not want to slide off slowly into cricketing impotency. Fielding has become top of the list of occupations during which I think to myself, "What else could I be doing over the next three hours?" I look round and think, "Why am I dressed like this? Look at these flannelled fools. Oh God, why didn't I have flu today?"'

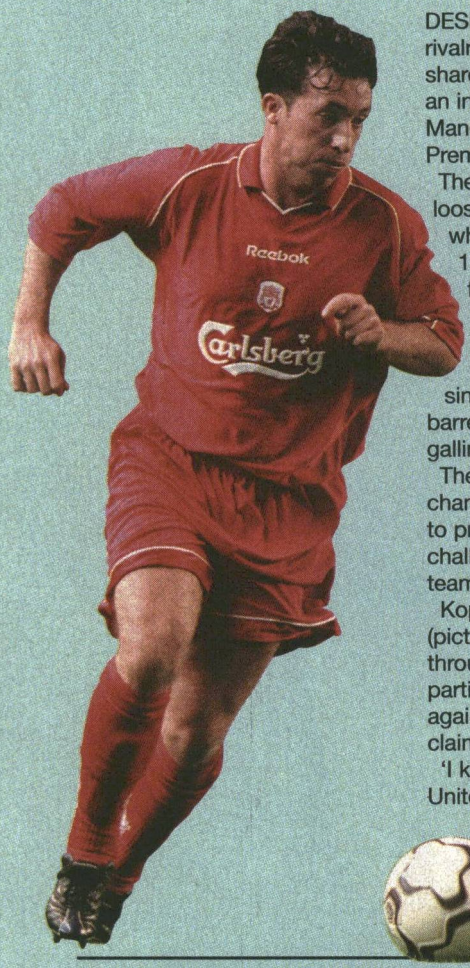
LIVERPOOL V ARSENAL
SKY SPORTS 1 SATURDAY 23RD 11.00AM – LIVE

Neil Martin previews the clash between two championship contenders at Anfield



DESPITE their undoubted rivalry, Arsenal and Liverpool share one common bond – an intense desire to end Manchester United's reign as Premier League champions.

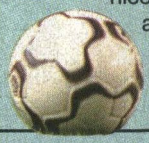
The Gunners looked to have loosened United's stranglehold when they finished top in 1998, but have had to settle for the runners-up spot in the past two seasons.

Liverpool, meanwhile, have not won the league since the 1989/90 season – a barren spell made even more galling by United's success.

The clash at Anfield offers a chance for both sets of players to prove that they are serious challengers to Alex Ferguson's team this season.

Kop end hero Robbie Fowler (pictured, left), a Scouser through and through, is particularly keen to do well against Arsenal and ultimately claim a championship medal.

'I know the Manchester United lads well and they're nice people, but they've achieved more than we have, and I'd be lying if I said I'm not jealous of them.



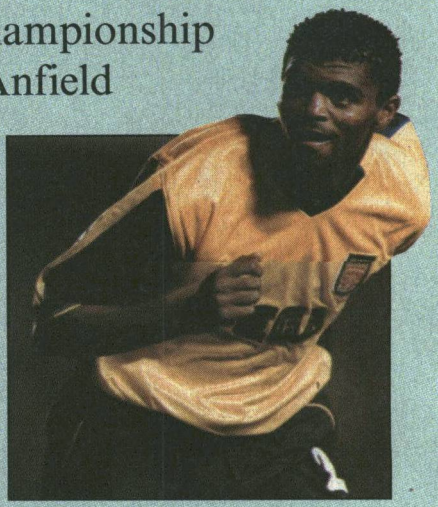
'I want what they've got, and I'm not the only one,' Fowler explains.

'When we meet up with England squads, I do get a bit envious when I see what the likes of David Beckham, Paul Scholes and the Neville brothers have won over the years.

'Every player wants to be successful, and I'm no different. I want to look back at the end of my career and say to myself that I've been successful. Our fans deserve success, and it's up to all of us to work as hard as we can to achieve it,' the England international adds.

'I didn't think we would go so long without winning the league. It's incredible to think it's been ten seasons since we last finished at the top of the table, and that's something we all want to put right as soon as we possibly can.'

At Highbury, Nwankwo Kanu (pictured, above), who won a European Cup winners medal during his time at Ajax, has yet to win a major honour after having played in England for two years.



Like Fowler, the Nigerian is well aware that the players owe a lot to the fans for all their continued support and, in his case, also to the club that took a chance on him after his heart surgery.

'It's very important to have a good club behind me, and I want to give something back to them too – there is a lot of expectation from the club, and we need to win the championship,' Kanu says.

'It is so important to me because every club I have been at has won something, but here I haven't won anything yet – I want to win something for the supporters and for the club.'

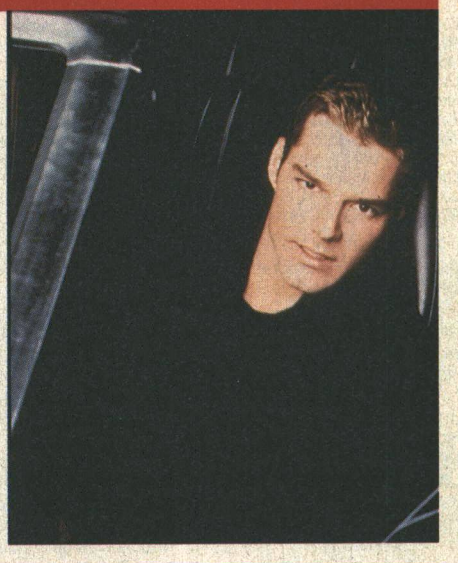
MTV marks World AIDS Day



The first day of the month will mark World AIDS Day. This important public health initiative, which occurs annually on this date, was first observed in 1988, after an international summit of health ministers called for a spirit of social tolerance and a greater exchange of information on HIV/AIDS. At last, the political arena had seen sense and decided to quash escalating rumours and falsities surrounding HIV/AIDS, such as the idea that you can catch the virus from shaking hands and sharing cups with the afflicted. But despite subsequent education, approximately 5.6m people were infected with the AIDS virus last year alone, making a worldwide total of almost 34m. As more than half of those recently infected are in the 15-24 age group, World AIDS Day activities will focus on young people, which is why MTV's support is so crucial. Amid its World AIDS Day programming, the channel will be premiering Staying Alive 2, introduced by Latino chart-topper Ricky Martin (right). This MTV origination, a follow up of the 1998 Emmy award-winning Staying Alive (which will also be shown), profiles six HIV positive and AIDS-infected people. Shot this summer in Africa, Asia, Europe, the Caribbean and North America, it highlights the far-reaching effects of the disease and the need for education – after all, while a cure for the HIV virus and AIDS continues to elude scientists, it's our best defence.

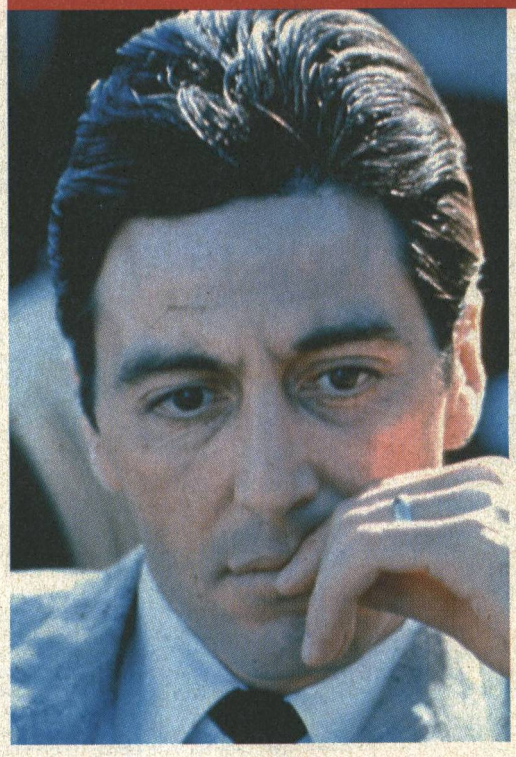
MTV, Friday 1st, 1.00pm, 6.00pm, 9.30pm and 12.30am

Royle flush?

A troubling lack of consistency has blighted Manchester City's Premiership campaign: one week Joe Royle's side comfortably collected three points from Leeds, while several fixtures later they were subjected to a dispiriting 5-0 stuffing by the Gunners. That said, apart from one out-of-sorts performance on the opening day of the season, City have not embarrassed themselves this term and, despite being reduced to ten men after Aussie international Danny Tiatto (left) was dismissed for two bookable offences, have battled bravely. Royle is clearly blessed with enough quality players to avoid a relegation dog fight come May. Still, City will need to keep their wits about them this Sunday when they journey to the Capital to face Chelsea's foreign legion at Stamford Bridge. With Claudio Ranieri at the helm, the Blues seem a far more cohesive side than they did at the start of the season, and if Dutch hitman Jimmy Floyd Hasselbaink is firing on all cylinders, City could have their work cut out.

Sky Sports 1, Sunday 3rd, 3.00pm

Mob rule



In 1972, barely four years after he had signed his name to the whimsical Oirish song-and-dance fantasy Finian's Rainbow – starring Tommy Steele, Petula Clarke and Fred Astaire – Francis Ford Coppola directed one of the key movies of the decade, whose influence can still be keenly felt today. He took the pulp plot of novelist Mario Puzo's Mafia pot-boiler The Godfather and transformed it into pure cinematic poetry. Coppola's richly detailed, emotionally affecting chronicle of the rise and fall of the Corleone crime family is one of those rare instances when the film is far better than the source book (though, to be fair, Puzo helped adapt his novel). The movie was dominated by the powerful presence of Marlon Brando, whose career, which had waned somewhat in the late 1960s, was given a substantial boost. The Method acting giant mumbled his way to a best actor Oscar for his blistering portrayal of the patriarchal Don Vito Corleone (though he would famously refuse the award in protest of his country's mistreatment of Native Americans), and he received fantastic support from an excellent cast, which included James Caan, Robert Duvall and a young Al Pacino (pictured). In The Godfather and its first sequel, The Godfather Part II (which plays on Saturday), Coppola put the densely woven plots on the screen with period panache. He explored the films' themes of love, loyalty and betrayal with consummate skill and demonstrated a generous understanding of his sometimes unsavoury characters. That we can identify with such murderous men is testament to the director's artistry. The central character in The Godfather saga is Michael Corleone, played by Al Pacino in a career-defining role; his portrayal of Michael's rise from principled war hero to ruthlessly powerful Mafia don is shattering. The disappointing, belated second sequel, The Godfather Part III, plays on Sky Cinema on Sunday.

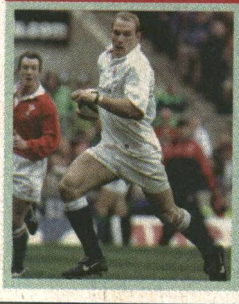
LIVE INTERNATIONAL RUGBY UNION: ENGLAND V SOUTH AFRICA
SKY SPORTS 2 1.30PM



South Africa's six-week end-of-year tour reaches its penultimate stage today as they visit Twickenham to play England, and the new Springboks boss, Harry Viljoen, a former Western Province Currie Cup-winning coach, will want to silence his critics. Among the players likely to be making up the nucleus of the visitors' side is the centre Robbie Fleck (pictured, right), while England will be looking to elite players such as Lawrence Dallaglio (pictured, left) to stop the Boks' advance.

A Bug's Life
Disney Channel 1.00pm, 7.00pm
Totally charming animated comedy from the Toy Story people. A young and clumsy bug accidentally destroys his community's food supply, earmarked for invading grasshoppers, and seeks the help of a group of second-rate circus insects to help replenish the stocks.

GENERAL

The Simpsons
Sky One 6.30pm
Former President George Bush once famously wished The Simpsons could be more like The Waltons. Ten years on since Matt Groening's inspired parody of American life first hit these shores, the series continues to excel, proving just how wrong US Presidents can be.

LIVE CHELSEA V MANCHESTER CITY SKY SPORTS 1 3.00PM

Premier League new boys Manchester City visit Stamford Bridge, where Claudio Ranieri's Chelsea will be keen to keep up their improvement in form. Captaining the Londoners will be their midfield dynamo Dennis Wise (pictured, left), who will be looking to get the better of his counterpart, Mark Kennedy (pictured, right). But the Dublin-born Republic of Ireland international has lightening pace and is likely to prove more than a handful for Wise and co.

LIVE FORD MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL: SUNDERLAND V EVERTON SKY SPORTS 1 7.00PM

LOVE STARS BY MARGIE THILLART

DECEMBER BIRTHDAYS
1st Woody Allen 2nd Britney Spears
10th Kenneth Branagh 18th Brad Pitt
29th Jude Law 31st Anthony Hopkins

Sensational ★★★ Stimulating ★★ Satisfactory ★

Aries
21 March-20 April ★★
Divine intervention from the planets puts you back on track. And while you may not walk the straight and narrow path, you'll be keen to rebuild trust with your partner. Forgiveness also helps an errant relationship this month.

Taurus
21 April-21 May ★★★
Your instinct is to cling to the past, but your stars suggest nothing will stay the same. If you can view obstacles as challenges and change as an opportunity for adventure, then the year may well end on a surprisingly happy note.

Gemini
22 May-21 June ★★
Your unrealistic expectations in a relationship may have caused feelings of failure. However, with lucky Jupiter in your sign a sudden reversal of fortune lifts your confidence and gives romance a much-needed boost.

Cancer
22 June-23 July ★★
Others may ignore your arguments, but you'll insist on having the last word. Sun in sassy Sagittarius is to blame. It not only loosens your tongue, but it makes you more upfront and determined to have your way.

Leo
24 July-23 August ★★
Christmas comes early for your sign, with glad tidings putting you in the holiday spirit. Not only will your upbeat mood infect others, but it will also have a beneficial effect on your health and whole wellbeing.

Virgo
24 August-23 September ★★
There's a fine line between happiness and heartache, so keep your emotions in check this month. The mood turns more mellow around Christmas and doubts about yourself or a loved one will fly out the window.

Libra
24 September-23 October ★
A spiritual connection between Neptune and Mars puts you in touch with people who instinctively know your needs. Loved ones and strangers alike will gravitate towards you, making you feel special and emotionally fulfilled.

Scorpio
24 October-22 November ★★
You usually keep your cards close to your chest, but this month you'll play more of an open hand. And while you may not reveal your innermost secrets, new levels of trust will be established with loved ones.

Sagittarius
23 November-22 December ★★
Sun and Mercury act as magnets, enticing new people and opportunities into your life. December is an ideal time to tie up loose ends and sever worn-out relationships, so you're ready to start afresh in the new year.

Capricorn
23 December-20 January ★★
Mars heightens your senses, making you more aware of the affect you have on others. Use this knowledge to your advantage, but only in an altruistic way. If you play games, there will be a backlash later.

Aquarius
21 January-19 February ★★★
Venus portrays you in a flattering light, giving you more leverage in relationships and enhancing your career. Expect the year to end on a much more positive note than it began, especially if you were born in February.

Pisces
20 February-20 March ★★
Someone may try to make you the scapegoat, but you'll be awake to the ploy. Your star shines very brightly this month and you can expect to reach new levels of understanding with those you love most.

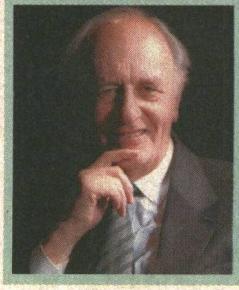
BRIAN MOORE INTERVIEWS: PETER CORMACK
SKY SPORTS 3 3.00PM



Brian Moore (pictured, left) gets up close and personal today with former Liverpool and Scotland midfielder Peter Cormack (pictured, right). The Edinburgh-born player was signed from Nottingham Forest by Bill Shankly in 1972 and enjoyed great success at Anfield until he left in November 1976 to join Bristol City. The star's memories of the legendary Shanks during those years will be worth hearing, as will his thoughts on the Liverpool of today. Cormack also enjoyed two separate stints at Hibernian.

FILM

The Big Knife
Carlton Cinema 11.00pm
A surprisingly hard-hitting drama about Hollywood back-stabbing. Jack Palance is the fading movie star who gets blackmailed into making another film by crazed producer Rod Steiger. The movie teeters on the edge of melodrama, but is still compelling.

LIVE TEST CRICKET: PAKISTAN V ENGLAND – THIRD TEST SKY SPORTS 2 4.45AM

Live coverage of the first day of the third Test, which sees England once again facing the formidable spin bowlers of Pakistan at the National Stadium in Karachi. David Gower follows the fortunes of Nasser Hussain's England side as they come to the end of what everyone predicted would be a difficult tour. Will England stalwart Graeme Hick (pictured) be able to turn the tables on a quality Pakistan side? The toss may be a crucial factor in how the teams' fortunes pan out.

QVC The Shopping Channel is at your service 24-hours-a-day – so watch when you can and tape when you can't. All you need is an item number. Call free phone on 0800-50-40-30 at any time. Today's highlight is The Christmas Shop at 7.00pm.

you can borrow £20,000 for just £187 a month

If you're thinking about borrowing a large sum of money but you don't want to lose control of your own finances, then it makes sense to talk to someone you know you can trust. Someone like Black Horse Finance. With our secured Homeowner Loan you could afford to purchase almost anything you have your eye on, or you could reorganise other loans and credit into one affordable monthly repayment.

You can borrow from £20,000 to £50,000 at 9.9% APR (variable), and choose to spread the repayments over 5 to 20 years. Loans from £3,000 to £19,900 are also available at other rates. Our optional, recommended Payment Protection Plan is designed to go to work when you can't. It can help meet your payments in the event of death, illness, accident, compulsory redundancy (or hospitalisation if self-employed). It's a small price to pay for complete peace of mind.

If you would like to apply for a loan, you can call us free on 0800 378 151 Mon-Fri 9am-9pm, Sat-Sun 10am-5pm or for hearing or speech impaired customers with their own textphone, call 0800 731 7098. Alternatively, complete and return the form below. Either way, we won't ask you for an interview or charge an arrangement fee.

Variable APR

on Homeowner Loans of £20,000 to £50,000

Loan at 9.9% APR Variable	Term	Optional Insurance	Monthly Repayments

LIVE TENNIS: DAVIS CUP FINAL – SPAIN V AUSTRALIA SKY SPORTS 1 1.00PM

Week 2

Saturday 9th December-Friday 15th December

Making sense

Containing one of the most talked-about plot twists since the last-reel revelation in The Usual Suspects, and boasting a fitting half-dozen Oscar nominations, The Sixth Sense arrives on Front Row heavily burdened with expectation. You may or may not see the much-vaunted surprise coming, but it's difficult to deny the film's haunting power or the skill with which it is assembled. A sombre spine-tingler, The Sixth Sense stars a subdued Bruce Willis as a psychologist helping a troubled boy (Hayley Joel Osment), burdened with the ability to see dead people. Writer-director M Night Shyamalan encourages an Oscar-nominated performance from then 11-year-old Osment, who breathes a heartbreaking sense of sadness into his role. Shyamalan is also rewarded by an excellent turn from Toni (Muriel's Wedding) Collette, who was criminally snubbed at the Oscars in the best supporting actress category. The director demonstrates a keen grasp of characters and truthful emotions, and also proves he's no slouch when it comes to generating nerve-shredding shocks.

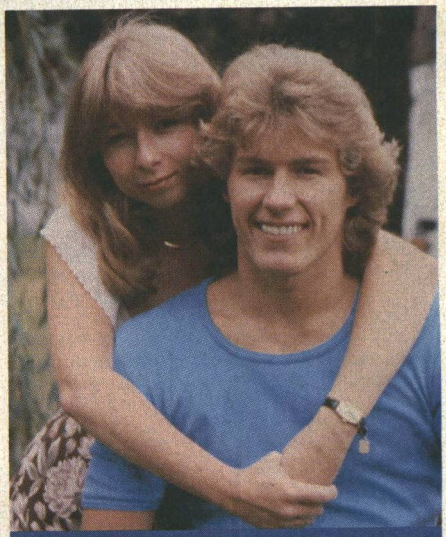
A Nobel cause

The annual Nobel Peace Prize presentation takes place, as usual, in Oslo on 10 December – the day its Swedish founder, Alfred Nobel, died, in 1896. The inventor, best-known for creating dynamite, dedicated his life to science and fulfilled his ultimate aim – to be of service to mankind – by leaving his entire estate to endow prizes to those who benefit humanity. And so the Nobel Prizes in Physics, Chemistry, Physiology or Medicine, Literature and Peace were created. CNN will broadcast a one-hour special from this year's presentation

CNN, Sunday 10th, 4.00pm



The Street turns 40

On the evening of 9 December 1960, a British institution was born. Coronation Street, the Manchester-based soap set in the fictional town of Weatherfield, made its debut. Soon the drama amassed an army of fans, and it still rakes in an average 20m viewers per episode. It is regarded with such reverence that the Granada Studios tour of the Street has become one of the UK's top tourist attractions. As Corrie celebrates its 40th birthday this month, Granada Plus reruns classic episodes.

LIVE ALPINE SKIING: MEN'S WORLD CUP BRITISH EUROSPORT 9.00AM

Full coverage of the latest round in the Men's World Cup in Val-d'Isère, France. The world's best in super-G, giant slalom and downhill will be vying for points, but taking centre stage will be Austria's Hermann Maier (pictured) – who appears almost unbeatable. Maier, from Flachau – who is 28 this month – certainly lived up to his nickname 'the Herminator', when he finished off the competition in the giant slalom to win the opening race of the World Cup season at Solden in October.

FILM

The Fog
Sci-Fi 10.00pm
A genuinely unsettling early effort from horror master John Carpenter. The inhabitants of a small Californian village are trapped by a sinister mist which rolls off the sea. Is it just a natural phenomenon, or is there another reason for its sudden appearance?

GENERAL

The Doors – Live in Europe
VH1 11.00pm
A fascinating biopic filmed during The Doors' 1968 European tour. Only a year later the wild and charismatic front man Jim Morrison's career was finished after he was convicted of lewd behaviour following a performance in Miami. Two years later he was dead.

LIVE RINGSIDE SPECIAL: MICHAEL GOMEZ V IAN MCLEOD SKY SPORTS 1 8.00PM

A battle of the little big men as Manchester's local hero Michael Gomez (right in picture), defends his British super-featherweight title at the Kingsway Leisure Centre in Widnes, against Ayrshire's Ian McLeod, a former Commonwealth champion. This could be Gomez's last fight at this weight, because a victory tonight will secure him the Lonsdale belt outright, allowing him to change division to the more lucrative featherweight so he could take a shot at one of the world champions.

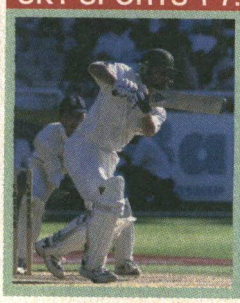
SOUTH AFRICA V NEW ZEALAND – THIRD TEST
SKY SPORTS 1 7.30PM



Final-day action of the crucial third Test from Johannesburg between South Africa and New Zealand. The two international cricketing giants' one-day series ended with a decisive victory for the home side back in October. Putting on the pressure will be South African left-hander Gary Kirsten (pictured, left), the backbone of the Protea's batting order. For the visiting Kiwis, run-maker Craig McMillan (pictured, right) could be the man to make the difference.

Vicki Butler-Henderson
GIRL RACER

Wish upon a car

Fed up with the traditional driving gloves or chamois leather cleaning cloth? Still stuck for a Christmas present for that car-mad member of your family? Vicki Butler-Henderson might just have the answer

STILL a kid at heart, I just love this time of year and I've already sent my little (well, long, actually) list of present ideas to S Claus Esq. And I'd like to share my top ten 'must-haves' with you, just in case you can't think of what to buy your motoring-mad friends or family members!

1 A party for the kids at your local indoor kart track. These gatherings are great fun, always well organized and needn't cost a fortune if a few parents club together.

2 Model cars. I love them and have about a dozen lining my staircase at home! Big or small, there's one to suit every budget. So how about a miniature version of the car parked in your drive? You should also have a look at the remote control ones. Failing that, what about a real car? (Wishful thinking maybe, but isn't that part of the fun?)

3 How about a day at one of the many racing, rally or off-road schools around the country? Prices start at around £130 for a half-day's driving, but it'll be mega and is highly recommended for both birds and blokes.

4 Booking ahead always saves money, so why not think about buying tickets for next year's British Formula One Grand Prix now? After last April's shenanigans, the event is moving back to the summer, and is currently scheduled for 15 July 2001.

5 Being a relatively new biker chick, I would really, really love Father Christmas to send me on a track course for some two-wheeled frolics. See racing circuits for details, and perhaps I'll see you there.

6 If your other half is obsessed with their car, accessories can be good stocking fillers. You can buy a cleaning kit or a winter kit that includes a de-icer and ice scraper. Very good for this time of year.

7 A stereo CD player for the car makes a really good present and prices of these start from about £100 for a single CD and radio, going up to a lot of cash for flashier multi-CD models. So splash out and have your own cool soundtrack complementing every journey.

8 The long-awaited PlayStation 2 is about to be launched and I'm sure it'll be top of most children's wish list. No doubt, so will the motorsport games, such as Gran Turismo 2000, that will follow hot on its trail.

9 Subscriptions to motoring magazines always go down well with the auto aficionado.

10 I couldn't end my list without a mention of Jeremy Clarkson's annual Christmas video – particularly this year, as I'm in it! It's called Jeremy Clarkson At Full Throttle and costs £14.99.

I hope this gives you some inspiration, and I wish every single one of you a fantastic Christmas and a very merry New Year!

See Vicki in a new series of Top Gear GTi starting on UK Horizons on Saturday 2nd, see listings for details

FORD RUGBY UNION: VARSITY MATCH – OXFORD V CAMBRIDGE SKY SPORTS 1 10.00AM

Another chance to see all the excitement from one of the most significant matches in the rugby union calendar as Cambridge took on long-standing rivals Oxford in the 119th Varsity match at Twickenham. Cambridge entered the game hoping to win back the Bowring Bowl they lost during their confrontation last year, when Oxford won 16-13. That Dark Blues' triumph prevented the Light Blues from gaining a record sixth consecutive victory.

Costumed capers

Mystery Men is a sublimely silly superhero spoof that boasts a cast of impeccable cult pedigree, including Simpsons voice cast regular Hank Azaria and, in supporting spots, gravel-voiced singer Tom Waits and cross-dressing comedian Eddie Izzard. This adaptation of the comic series follows the misadventures of a motley crew of wannabe costumed crime fighters who are endowed with less than astonishing powers, including the Invisible Boy, who can only call upon his skill when nobody is looking, and the Blue Raja (Azaria) whose weapon of choice is the ordinary household fork. Underlying all the defiantly puerile slapstick is a commendable compassion for the underdog, and the likable performances of the leads make it easy for viewers to root for the film's hapless have-a-go heroes. First-time feature director Kinka Usher demonstrates a great skill for funky, designer visuals. Front Row, see listings for details

Beanz meanz Heinz

'Quality is to a product what character is to a man.' So said Henry John Heinz, who is profiled in The History Channel's Biography programme Heinz. He built up a business that transformed the processed food industry and is today worth $9.4bn. Heinz, from Pittsburgh, had a natural skill for selling. At 12 he was selling produce out of his family's garden and at the age of 25, in 1869, he and a friend launched the company Heinz & Noble. After initial success, the company went bankrupt in 1875, but the resilient Heinz hurled himself back into business. By 1896, Heinz had created more than 60 products, including the ever-popular ketchup, and various condiments. Heinz's legacy lives on and the company these days markets more than 5,700 products all over the world.

A tale of one city

Football comes home to Sheffield this Saturday as the city's two sides meet for their first league encounter in six years, with United (whose Marcus Bent is pictured) playing host to last season's Premiership relegation victims Wednesday. The teams had a dry run in November, when United were beaten 2-0 in their Worthington Cup clash with Wednesday at Hillsborough – loan star Efan Ekoku finding the net twice for the home team. But United are a proud side and will want revenge. Sky Sports 1, Saturday 16th, 11.00am – LIVE

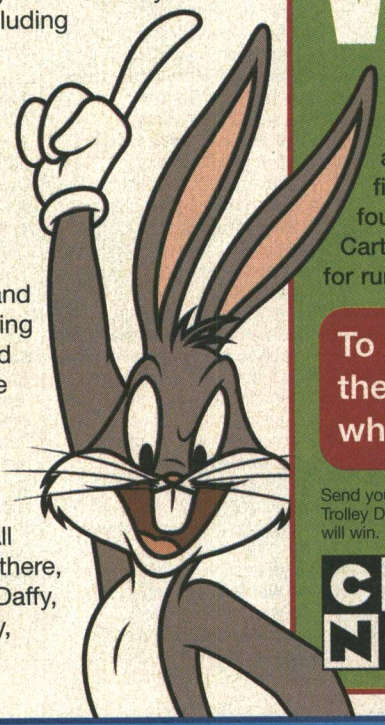
COMPILED by PHILIPPA PROBERT

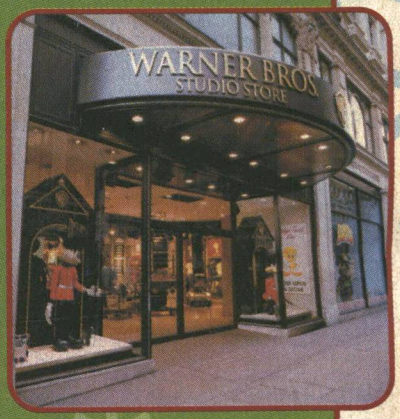
Wishing you a Looney Christmas!

LOONEY yuletide greetings, one and all, from Cartoon Network! Toon in to Cartoon Theatre for top toon movies daily from Monday 18th to Sunday 24th, including Scooby Goes to Hollywood. All your toon favourites are getting into the Christmas spirit with themed episodes on Christmas Eve, and in between opening your pressies and stuffing down the Christmas pud, settle down and enjoy a Looney Tunes Christmas Day marathon. All the gang will be there, including Bugs, Daffy, Sylvester, Tweety, Porky and Road Runner!



WIN

To celebrate all the festive toon action, Cartoon Network and Warner Bros. Studio Stores are offering one lucky reader a fantastic £250 trolley dash at their nearest Studio Store! The winner will get 60 seconds to rush around the store grabbing all the goodies they can. The winner will also get five free cinema tickets for any Warner Village Cinema to see a film of their choice for themselves and four friends. And what's more, there's 25 Cartoon Network goody bags up for grabs for runners-up, too.



To enter, tell us the name of the carrot-munching rabbit who asks, 'What's up, Doc?'

Send you answer on a postcard, with your name, address, age and telephone number, to Cable Guide/ Trolley Dash competition, PO BOX 2176, London W1A 5TW. The first 26 correct entries drawn at random will win. Warner Bros. Studio Stores are located in Bluewater, Braehead, Chester, Croydon, Dublin, Dudley, Gateshead, Gatwick, Glasgow, Kingston, Lakeside, London Regent Street, Manchester, Preston, Reading, Sheffield and Thurrock. Cinema tickets can only be used from Monday to Thursday and can't be used at the West End or Finchley Road branches. Closing date for entries 31 December 2000. Full Cable Guide competition rules are on page 216.

CARTOON NETWORK

Take two

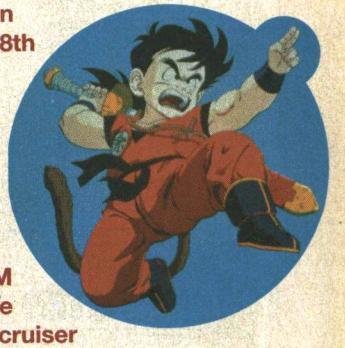
SINCE Ashley and Mary-Kate Olsen (below) started their careers as babies, their lives have been a whirlwind of film and TV appearances. October saw the twins, now 14, in England filming their latest movie, Winning London, and the duo were looking forward to seeing Britney Spears performing to packed audiences at Wembley Arena.

The stars of Nickelodeon's Two of a Kind are used to receptive audiences themselves; along with their fashion lines, books and videos, there is also a website for their fans (www.mary-kateandashley.com).

But don't the girls ever fall out? Ashley tells Cable Guide: 'If we do have a fight, it will be over silly things like clothes, nothing big.' Mary-Kate adds: 'We've never done anything separate!' Two of a kind, indeed!

Two of a Kind, Nickelodeon, Monday-Thursday, 4.00pm, 4th-15th; part of Head to Head Tag Team Weekend, 16th-17th; double episodes, 5.00pm, 18th-22nd; and Two of a Kind afternoon, Friday 29th.

PHOTOS: CARTOON NETWORK, NICKELODEON



Starting on Monday 18th (3.00pm-6.00pm), Cartoon Network launches Toonami. Join 3-D robot TOM aboard the space cruiser Absolution and catch all your favourite action adventure cartoons, including Dragonball Z and brand new anime shows from Japan, starting with Gundam Wing in January!

12.00 NIGHT TIME

LIVE FORD SUPER SUNDAY: MANCHESTER UNITED V LIVERPOOL SKY SPORTS 1 11.00AM

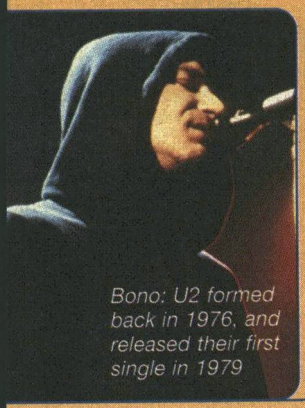
SINGLE-MINDED

Can you remember the chart greats from 2000? As MTV rounds up the cream of the year's number one crop, we single out the chart busters for Y2K

The old v the young

Their first UK number one since 1997's Discotheque saw U2 sitting pretty with Beautiful Day, proudly beating Robbie and Kylie's duet, Kids. Says Bono: 'You think to yourself, we're a rock band, we don't need the pop chart ... but singles are what make rock 'n' roll sharp.'



Bono: U2 formed back in 1976, and released their first single in 1979

The film tracks

The All Saints girls were back on top form with Pure Shores, from the Leonardo DiCaprio blockbuster The Beach. With best mate and co-star Rupert Everett on backing vocals, Don McLean's American Pie received a Madonna makeover for her latest film The Next Best Thing.

Saints and winners: All Saints also topped the chart this year with Black Coffee

The going-solos

Geri Halliwell bagged another number one with Bag It Up in March, while semi-solo artist Melanie C hit the top slot twice with Never Be the Same Again and I Turn to You. And amid questions about the future of Boyzone, Ronan Keating continued his solo success with Life Is a Rollercoaster in July.

The comeback kid

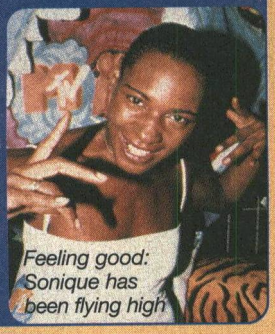
I Should Be So Lucky? Never heard of it! Kylie Minogue got us all Spinning Around, the catchy number (written by Paula Abdul) with which she stormed back onto the music scene in June.

The new blood

Craig David hit the big time with chart successes Fill Me In and 7 Days. On a UK tour until 10 December, he's already notched up a handful of awards, including three MOBOs. Says Craig: 'It's just amazing how everything has fallen into place in such a short time.'

The contagious

Two infectious dance tracks were among the longest-standing number ones in 2000, with Sonique's Feels So Good and Fragma's Toca's Miracle both staying put for three-week stints.



Feeling good: Sonique has been flying high

The high-profile battle to the finish

The number one knockout of the year saw Spiller's Groovejet (If This Ain't Love) beat Victoria Beckham and Dane Bowers's True Steppers collaboration, Out of Your Mind.

The record-breakers

Westlife exceeded all expectations, not least their own, with their seventh consecutive single release, My Love, blitzing the competition.

Sweet music: the 19-year-old Craig David proves that a mix of garage and R'n'B is tops

LIONEL'S SHOP OF HORRORS

Reverend Lionel Fanthorpe's real-life horror stories are the stuff of nightmares. Paul Simpson steels himself to speak to the roving, Harley-riding eccentric

Stranger than fiction: a macabre trail of terror and torture awaits Lionel Fanthorpe as he visits some of Europe's most infamous castles and houses on his Harley-Davidson

HE MAY be fondly regarded for his appearances on the consciously quirky Fortean TV, but Reverend Lionel Fanthorpe ventures into darker true-life territory this month when he begins his investigations into the stories surrounding some of Europe's best-known castles – the sites of some foul and bloody deeds in centuries long gone. As befits the president of The Association for the Scientific Study of Anomalous Phenomena (ASSAP), Fanthorpe is looking at all the tales with an open mind, querying established explanations as he presents re-enactments of some of the distant past's more grisly moments – which seem as far removed from modern life as the out-of-this-world existence of the inhabitants of Babylon 5.

'I'm a Harley-Davidson fanatic,' Fanthorpe explains, 'so me in my leathers on the Harley is the modern equivalent of the knight in armour on the grey stallion travelling around the country. We want to share with the viewer the excitement that we've felt at all these locations – so when I'm standing on an old piece of stone and saying it was here, in this room, that Edward II was brutally murdered, and we describe the horrendous things that happened to him, our viewer friends are standing with us.'

But did Edward II really die at Berkeley Castle? Perhaps not, muses Fanthorpe. 'His son received a letter from an Italian priest which told the young king his father did not die in horrendous agony from the red-hot irons that they thrust into him after all,' he explains. 'So did Edward II escape and were all the horrible screams just a put-up job to spread the rumour that he was dead after he'd been smuggled out of Berkeley Castle?'

Superheroes aren't solely to be found in fantasy films either. A medieval James Bond operated near Chateau Gaillard in France. 'One of King Philip's men was an immensely powerful swimmer,' Fanthorpe says. 'He sealed up some live coals inside a big earthenware jar, swam under water across the river Seine with this lot sealed up, and used the red-hot coals to set fire to the vital wooden props that were holding up the castle.'

There's nothing quite so horrific as man's inhumanity to man, and whenever an unusual historical tale comes to light, Fanthorpe and his intrepid team will be there to investigate. So what better way to end the first year of the new millennium than to join them?

BIG FIGHTS: FREDDIE MILLS SKY SPORTS 3 10.00PM

This programme – hosted by Bill Cayton – looks at the career of British boxer Freddie Mills (pictured) whose life and death were among the sport's most bizarre. Bournemouth-born Mills was a hero of the 1940s and 50s boxing scene. He became the British and Commonwealth light heavyweight champion in 1942 with a victory over Len Harvey in London and was crowned world champion in 1948 – when he beat Gus Lesnevich. He also gallanty but unsuccessfully fought as a heavyweight. Outside of the ring Mills's life was equally eventful. He died in suspicious circumstances in 1965 at the age of 46.

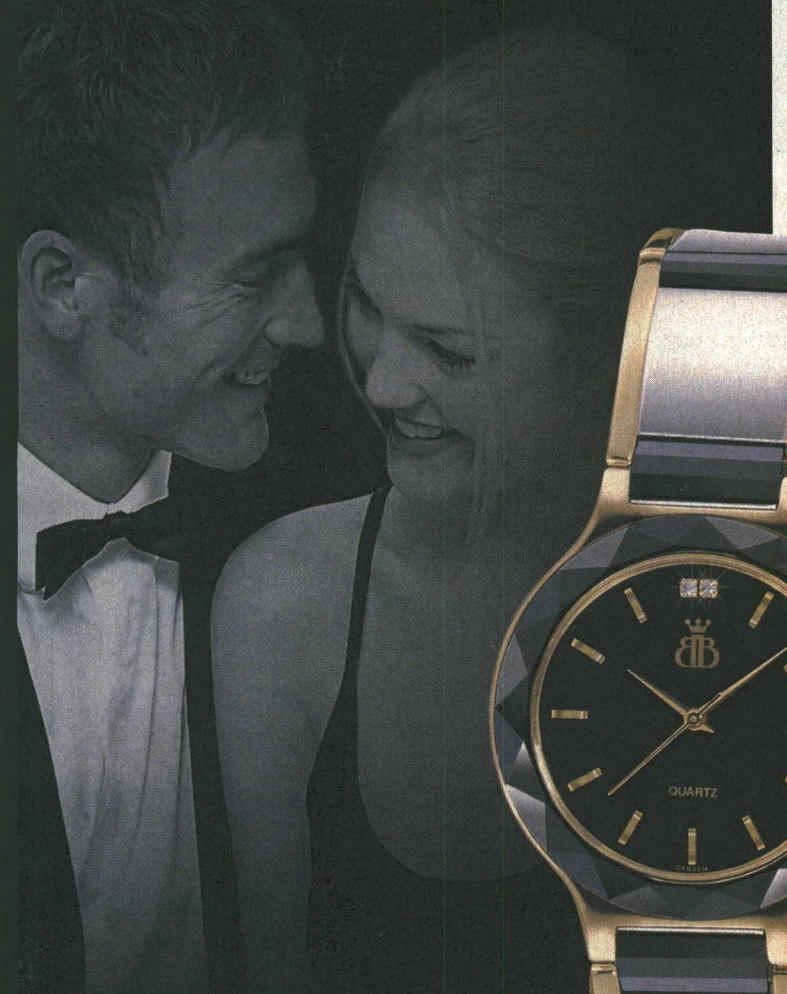
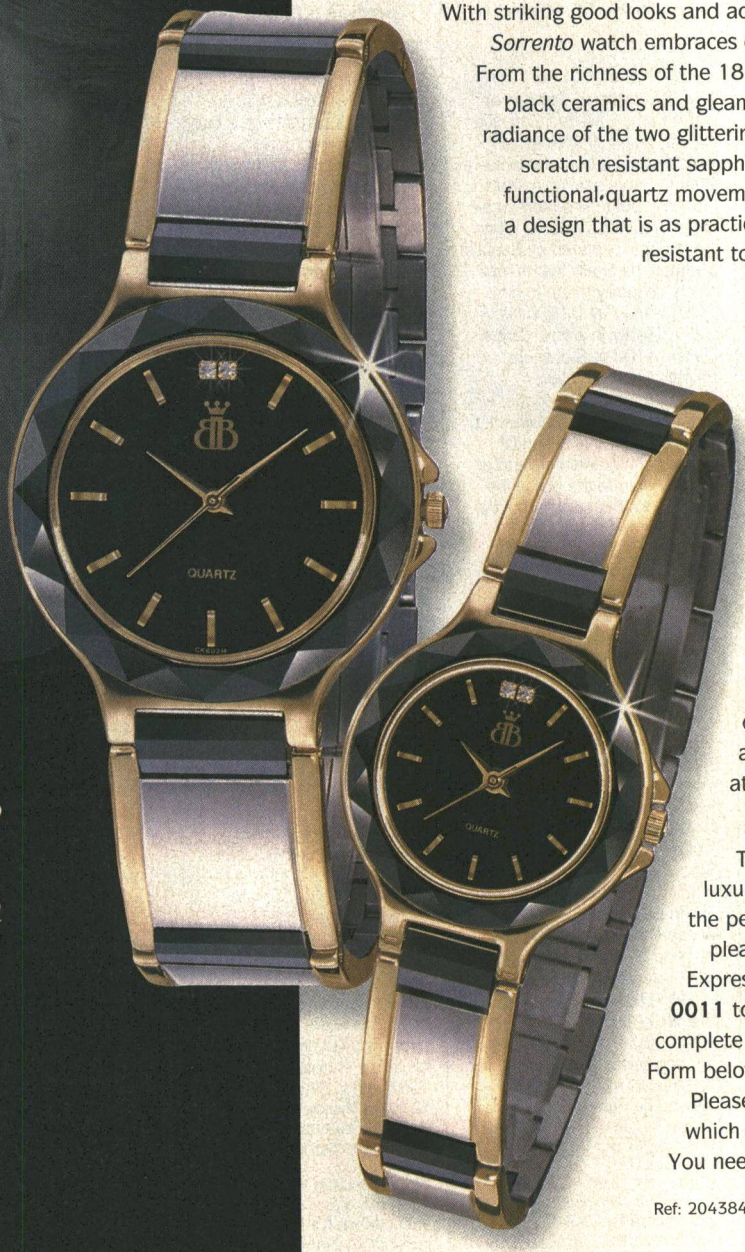
SORRENTO



Sophisticated new timepieces for him and for her...



Watches shown larger than actual size of approximately 7" (17.8cm) Ladies and 8" (20.5cm) Mens.

Inspired by the refined sophistication and classic distinction of Italian style and design, the master jewellers of Brooks & Bentley are proud to announce Sorrento, an exciting new pair of exquisite timepieces for the fashions of today.

With striking good looks and accurate precision timing, each Sorrento watch embraces only the finest materials. From the richness of the 18 carat gold plating, smooth black ceramics and gleaming stainless steel to the radiance of the two glittering cubic zirconia gemstones, scratch resistant sapphire crystal glass and fully functional quartz movement. All combined to create a design that is as practical as it is stylish, and water resistant to thirty metres.

Time... the most precious luxury of all...

Available at the introductory issue price of just £148.00* per elegant timepiece, Sorrento is payable in eight interest-free monthly instalments for your convenience. In addition this precious new masterpiece is available in both mens and ladies designs, each with its own luxury presentation case and Certificate of Authenticity attesting to its valued status as a Brooks & Bentley classic.

To acquire Sorrento in all its luxurious splendour, for you or as the perfect gift for someone special, please telephone our 24 Hour Express Order Line on 0870 444 0011 today. Or if you prefer simply complete and return your Reservation Form below by 31st December, 2000. Please remember to indicate which design(s) you require. You need send no money now.

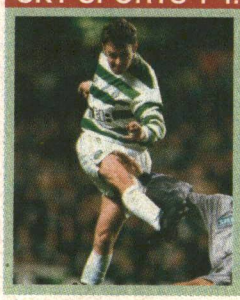
INSIDE SCOTTISH FOOTBALL
SKY SPORTS 1 4.00PM



With Celtic's sudden change of fortune following the appointment of Martin O'Neill as manager, the impressive performances of Alex McLeish's Hibernian and Rangers' uncustomary fall in league form, the Scottish football scene has become a hotbed of stories. Players like Chris Sutton (pictured, left) of the Bhoys and Kenny Miller (pictured, right) of the Gers will be featured as the tale of the race for the honours unfolds. Jim White presents the show.

Fantasy & SF Book Club, BCA, Swindon, SN99 9XX

When I was younger, I enjoyed nothing more than torching armoured knights and terrorising maidens. But I got old, I got bored, my wings started getting a little stiff and I just didn't have the energy for that sort of thing any more. Then, after an encounter with a rather inflammable postman, I discovered the Fantasy & SF Book Club.

If you dream of epic quests, excitement and adventure, but don't quite know how to go about it, then this is the club for you – all you have to do is stick the coupon in the post!

All they ask in return is that you choose one book from each magazine, for a minimum of four magazines. That's all!

DMA

Becoming a member is easy: just choose five of the books shown on these shelves, from only 50p EACH (plus £2.99 p&p).

WHAT ELSE DO YOU GET?

- Hoards of the latest and very best fantasy and SF books and CD ROMs to choose from.
- A FREE magazine approximately every two months.
- Savings of up to 50% on the publishers' prices off every book you buy.
- Ten days' no-obligation trial.
- Books delivered to your door!

EXCLUSIVE ON LINE BENEFITS

- Order online, view your account, pre-order books and discover thousands more titles
- PLUS, if we don't have a title in stock, your club website will take you to bol.com where you can access all British books in print. We'll even credit your account with a 10% discount.

Complete and return the coupon today. You could save up to £165!

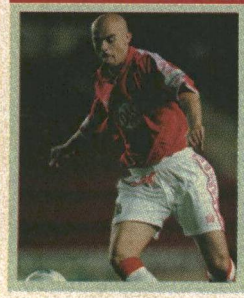
LIVE BRISTOL CITY V BRISTOL ROVERS SKY SPORTS 2 7.00PM



Live coverage of an intriguing mid-table Division Two derby between Bristol City and arch-rivals Rovers from Ashton Gate. Rovers are finding this season less fruitful than last, and both sides will be hoping to put some distance between each other in the table. City fans will be looking to Moldovan midfielder Ivan Tistimetanu (pictured, left) to give them the edge. Meanwhile, the silky skills of Rovers' veteran Mark Walters (pictured, right) could prove City's undoing.

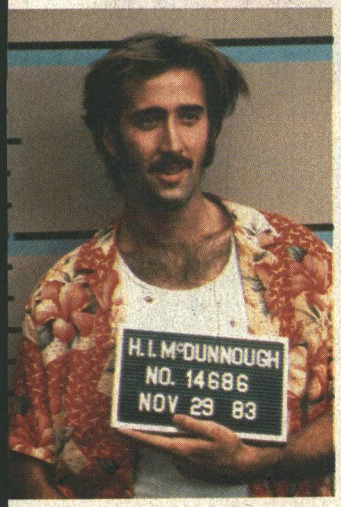
Week 4

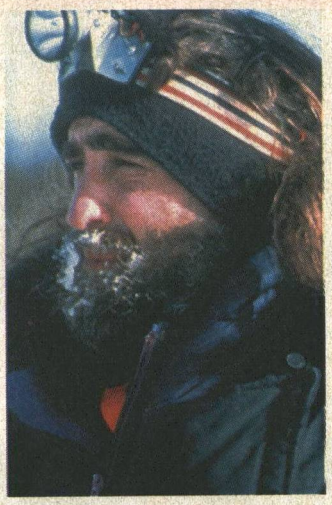
Saturday 23rd December-Sunday 31st December

The quirky world of the Coens



The unique cinematic artistry of cult film-making siblings Joel and Ethan Coen is celebrated on Sky Cinema with a double-bill of Raising Arizona and Miller's Crossing. The two movies couldn't be more different in terms of tone, content and execution, but they make for a good introduction to the off-kilter world of the Coens, whose recent effort, O Brother, Where Art Thou?, starring George Clooney, received excellent reviews. The brothers, who have developed their own perversely original visual style since their assured debut feature, Blood Simple, in 1984, co-write their films, with Ethan producing and Joel handling the directing chores. Raising Arizona (1987), their second film, is an earthy but likable screwball comedy, starring Nicolas Cage, Holly Hunter and Coens stalwart John Goodman (the latter two can be seen in O Brother, Where Art Thou?). Cage is an ex-hold up man, married to former cop Hunter. The couple are desperate to start a family, but are unable to conceive. When a local furniture tycoon has quintuplets, Cage decides to steal one of the babies. And that's when their lives get really complicated. The brothers' follow-up, Miller's Crossing (1990), is a brilliantly designed, defiantly convoluted homage to the classic Hollywood gangster movies, and rates as one of the most stylised depictions of a criminal underworld. Just don't leave the room for too long or you'll be left behind by all the twists. Sky Cinema, Wednesday 27th, from 8.00pm

It's a dog's life



It may or may not be a white Christmas here, but Sled Dogs – An Alaskan Epic evokes a truly wintry feel. Alaska's Iditarod sled dog race is considered one of the last great races in the world – and possibly one of the most unique and arduous tests of man and his best friend. Each year, hundreds of mushers (sled drivers) and their dogs battle their way across more than 1150 miles of Alaskan wilderness from Anchorage to Nome, in the bitter Arctic cold. The annual Iditarod trail race was inspired by a historic event – a dog-sled relay of life-saving serum from Anchorage to the remote area of Nome in 1925, where, in the middle of a frigid winter, a diphtheria epidemic had broken out. Today, Iditarod mushers brave much of the same wild Alaskan trail as those early heroes. The lives of Nome residents no longer hang in the balance, but the journey remains just as challenging. The world famous race attracts mushers from around the world, each working with a team of 12 to 16 specially trained dogs. In this documentary – narrated by Hollywood actor Peter Coyote – we meet the mushers as they endure hazardous journeys that last up to 17 days in the bleakly beautiful Alaskan wilderness.

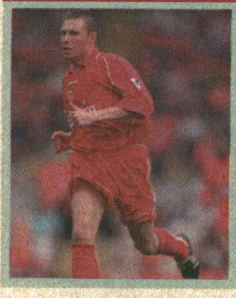
LIVE FORD FOOTBALL SPECIAL: LIVERPOOL V ARSENAL
SKY SPORTS 1 11.00AM



A pre-Christmas treat for soccer fans as two championship hopefuls, Liverpool and Arsenal, clash at Anfield. The Merseysiders will be looking to wreak revenge for their first defeat of the season at the hands of the Gunners back in August. But they will want it to be less dramatic than that clash, which saw three dismissals. Liverpool's midfielder Nick Barmby (pictured, left) may have his work cut out keeping Arsenal's prolific scorer Thierry Henry (pictured, right) in check.

SUPER LEAGUE: SUPER LEAGUE V – HOW THE 2000 TITLE WAS WON
SKY SPORTS 2 2.00PM, 11.30PM, SKY SPORTS 3 6.00PM

Relive all the action from the play-offs and a thrilling Super League V Grand Final and see how the 2000 championship was won.
St Helens lifted the giant Super League trophy for the second consecutive time with a victory at Old Trafford over old rivals Wigan Warriors, thanks to the efforts of the likes of Tommy Martyn (left in picture). Even the talents of Wigan prop forward and Ireland international Terry O'Connor (right in picture) were not enough to overcome the Saints.

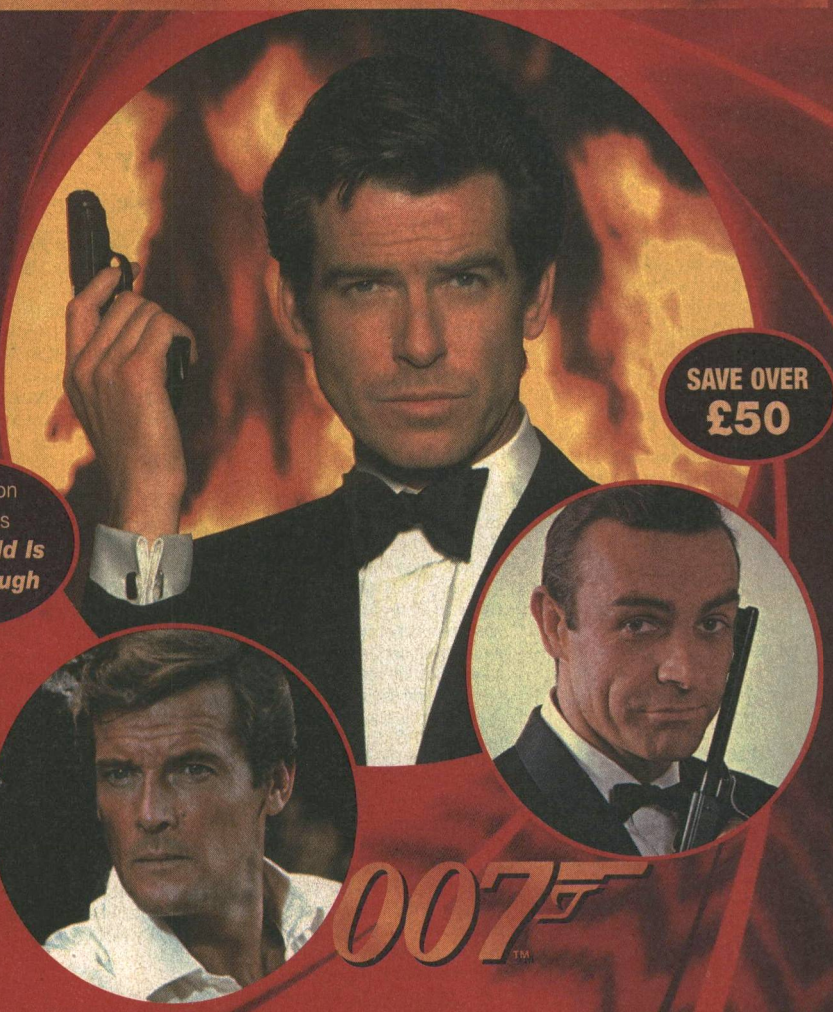
WHEN YOU START COLLECTING

THE JAMES BOND 007 COLLECTION



SAVE OVER £50

Collection includes The World Is Not Enough

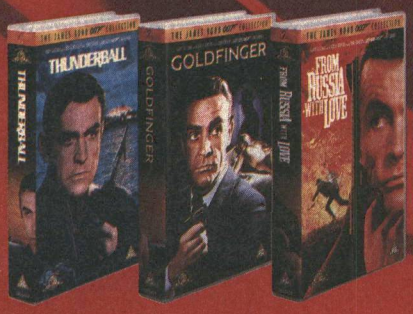
Bond is back with all the action-packed adventure, suspense and romance that we have come to expect from Britain's most famous secret agent.

From Sean Connery – the original Bond – through to Pierce Brosnan, the latest Bond hero, 007 has duelled with the villains, driven the cars, saved the world and of course, he always gets the girl!



3 FREE VIDEOS

When you order Dr No, the first movie in the Bond Collection, you will be invoiced for just £14.99 for VHS, or £19.99 for DVD, (plus p&p). In addition and at the same time, you will receive the next three movies in the Collection – From Russia With Love, Goldfinger and Thunderball – absolutely FREE!

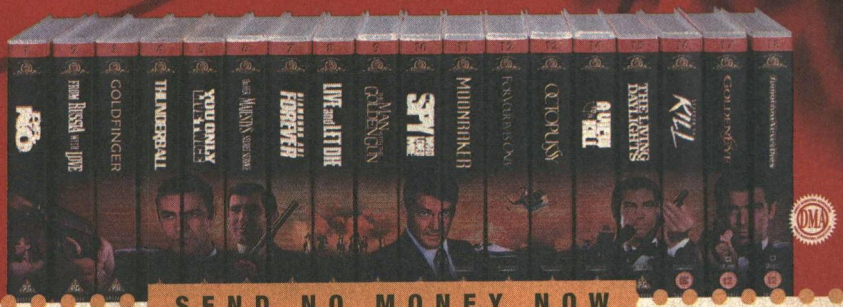
Subsequent movies will be sent to you at regular intervals, also on approval, at £14.99 for VHS, or £19.99 for DVD, (plus p&p) until your Bond Collection is complete or until you cancel your membership.

As a member your only commitment is to purchase a further six movies from the Collection – that's all!



NOW AVAILABLE ON DVD VIDEO

From Dr No to The World Is Not Enough. From Sean Connery to Pierce Brosnan. The entire Bond collection is out on DVD and can be yours to own.

The world's most famous secret agent is nearly 40 years old on film and looks as fresh as when Sean Connery first took on the mantel in 1962. This Collection gives an unbeatable mix of the latest DVD technology and the best action movies.

LIVE ASTON VILLA V MANCHESTER UNITED SKY SPORTS 1 12NOON

Boxing Day coverage from Villa Park of the clash between Aston Villa and Manchester United (whose Mikael Silvestre is pictured, right). Both teams are packed with talent, and Villa fans will be hoping to find their powerful striker Julian Joachim (pictured, left) on form. But United's combative captain Roy Keane won't want to let the title slip from his grasp as he attempts to win his fifth league championship with United. The corresponding fixture last season saw a 1-0 victory for United.

LIVE SOUTHAMPTON V TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR
SKY SPORTS 1 7.00PM

Spurs travel to the south coast to meet Southampton for their first meeting of the season. Saints supporters will be looking to the likes of Uwe Rösler (pictured, left) – a former German international, who moved from Tennis Borussia Berlin in the summer – to pull them away from the Premier League strugglers and bring a smile to the face of manager Glenn Hoddle. But Rösler's compatriot, Steffen Freund (pictured, right), could play a big part in upsetting the festive spirit at the Dell.

GOVERNMENT AUCTION NEWS

The monthly journal for the most comprehensive nationwide coverage of:

Bankruptcy and liquidation sales of the seized assets of companies in receivership/ administration - goods which are auctioned for whatever anyone is prepared to pay. Hundreds of sales listed each month of all types of goods.

HM Customs & Excise sales of impounded articles - from the effects of drug traffickers and racketeers to a lost and found dinghy, also goods confiscated in lieu of duty and those seized at ports and airports etc.

Police sales of unclaimed lost, stolen and recovered possessions - bicycles, household electronics, jewellery, business equipment, car stereos, cell phones, etc. - 'Aladdin's Caves', the contents of which are auctioned regularly. Buy from the police cheaper than you could from the criminals!

Government Surplus - Ministry of Defence/ Home Office vehicles, computers, tools, hardware, school and hospital supplies, nationalised public utility service machinery, generators, clothing, furniture, local authority and council property and land etc.

Transport Department sales of lost and unclaimed personal effects - from umbrellas by the thousand to handbags, briefcases, overcoats, filofaxes, wallets, books and even baby buggies, including sales of airport lost property.

On-Site sales - liquidation/relocation auctions of stocks that are too vast or bulky to be moved - those which take place on the premises or at trading sites and thus occur at different venues every week.

Plant and Machinery specialist sales - agents who deal solely in printing machines, farm equipment, photography, computers, the catering and building trade, electronics, mechanical, vehicles, etc.

USA Government Department of Defense surplus sales which take place regularly in the UK and throughout Europe - new and used merchandise which includes everything imaginable required to service the modern armed forces.

... plus property and mail order catalogue returns.

"The Bargain Hunter's Companion"

Now, here is a unique opportunity for you to participate in these little-publicised auctions which anyone is allowed is allowed to attend but few ever get to hear about. These are the most exciting, fascinating, lucrative and rewarding auctions around as most offer no reserve prices - where the goods under the hammer have to be sold, there and then, for whatever is offered.

Government Auction News is referred to and found invaluable by private and public companies alike, small businesses, purchasing managers, retailers, traders, charities and trusts, schools and colleges, specialist dealers, importers and exporters, together with cost-conscious individuals and bargain hunters of all kinds. Many have been referred to GAN by the DTI, DoE, HMSO, HM Customs and the Small Business Advice Centre.

Readers save, and in many cases make, hundreds, thousands of pounds. Anyone can take advantage of bargains such as these recent examples:

Item	Retail Price	At Auction
Porsche 928	£22,000	£7,560
Bedroom Suite	£500	£27
Pioneer Hi-Fi	£500	£20
Canon Photocopier	£3,000	£240
E-Type Jaguar	£6,000	£3,500
Honda 250 Motorbike	£1,900	£250

Miele Washing Machine/Drier	£600	£3
Large Pine Kitchen Table	£250	£45
Grundig Car Stereo	£195	£30

Together with detailing over 1,000 major sales each month (locations, dates, times, contents) Government Auction News is packed with features, articles, editorial and investigative reports. Readers also have private access to a unique fax information service which keeps you in constant touch with the market and brings fresh information on priceless short-notice sales to your immediate attention.

"Having attended my first auction I have really had my eyes opened. Visiting auctions will certainly add a very interesting and lucrative string to my bow. I thank you. Most beneficial." B.D., Wolverhampton

"Having attended auctions locally, I was amazed how cheap many of the goods were being sold off at. I realise the good value where the purchaser can more than make up the cost at his first auction." R.R., Bradford

"I have made enough profit from ONE sale to pay for [the information] 90 times over!" M.M., Yorks.

LIVE DARTS: WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP
SKY SPORTS 1 1.00PM, 7.00PM

England's darts-throwing phenomenon Phil 'The Power' Taylor (pictured) will be aiming for his eighth world title – and the sixth in a row – when he steps up to the oche for the World Championship, which starts today at the Circus Tavern in Purfleet, Essex. Taylor must be the favourite to pocket the lion's share of the £100,000 in prize money. Among his closest rivals could be his compatriot Rod Harrington and Richie Burnett of Wales. Sid Waddell spearheads the commentary team.

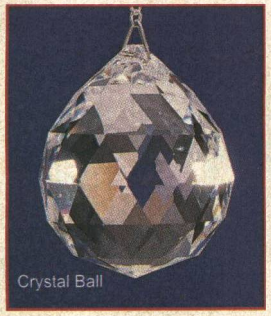
The Rainbow Crystals

Bring your home alive with dancing colours! Fill it with the legendary magic of crystal!



Crystals are 2cm to 7cm high

Shimmering crystal jewels, suspended on silvery chains... each capturing the smallest sunbeam, and magically turning it into a hundred dancing rainbows!

Each crystal is a different shape

Each Rainbow Crystal gemstone has its own unique shape. One is facetted like a glistening icicle, one resembles the radiant crescent moon. Another sparkles in the form of a star, yet another gleams like a mysterious crystal gazer's ball. There's a crystal leaf full of spring's promise, an arrowhead to frighten off evil, even a snowflake of tranquility.

Free window display

A silver-coloured display wand, trimmed with crystal finials is included at no extra cost. This easy-to-mount display hangs above your window, so the crystals capture every gleam of light!

Amazing value

With your very first crystal - the amazing 120-facetted crystal-gazer's ball - you also get a spectacular free bell shaped crystal worth £11.95, and a booklet on the legendary magic of crystal, and the many ways you can display your hanging jewels! At only £11.95 for each crystal, it's amazing value.

MAYFAIR EDITION

PO Box 143

FILM

The Spirit of St. Louis
TCM 9.00pm
Director Billy Wilder is better known for comedies such as The Apartment and Some Like It Hot, but this is still a gripping retelling of Charles Lindbergh's historic 1927 crossing of the Atlantic in the eponymous plane. James Stewart is perfectly cast as the intrepid pilot.

GENERAL

Mysteries of Magic
Discovery from 8.00pm
Three hour-long programmes examine the ancient art of magic. Teller (of Penn and Teller fame) describes his personal obsession, there's a look at the historic between magic and science, and the illusion of sawing a woman in half is dissected.

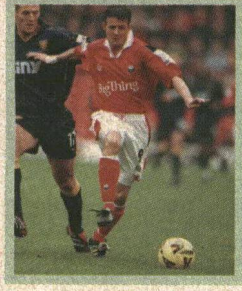
LIVE FIRST DIVISION FOOTBALL: BARNSLEY V WATFORD
SKY SPORTS 2 7.00PM



The talents of Iceland international Heidar Helguson (pictured, right) are enough to send a chill through any First Division opponents of the successful Watford side this season. But Barnsley will be hoping to avoid becoming another scalp for Graham Taylor's men and aim to wreak revenge for their early season 1-0 defeat. One player who could turn the tide for Barnsley manager Dave Bassett could be their live wire Welsh striker Lee Jones (pictured, left).

Ipswich are proving the pundits wrong this season, many of whom said they were among the most likely candidates to make a quick return to the First Division. Spurs' visit to Portman Road will be especially interesting because the Londoners beat George Burley's men on the opening day of the season. Will the result be reversed today? Spurs' midfielder Darren Anderton (pictured, right) will hope not, but Ipswich's Hermann Hreidarsson (pictured, left) will be aiming for goals.

LIVE NFL: PLAY-OFFS SKY SPORTS 1 5.00PM

It's play-off time again in the world of American football with the teams in this knockout stage looking to secure a place in next month's Super Bowl XXXV in Tampa. Will the hometown Buccaneers be there with powerhouse running back Mike Alstott (centre in picture) leading the way? The Bucs were pre-season favourites, but failed to live up to expectations, while defending champions St Louis Rams and surprise packets the Oakland Raiders still looked the teams to beat.

FLEA FREE FOREVER

the safe, non-chemical way!

At last here's a safe, easy, non-chemical way to end the health hazards and misery of fleas on your pet - and in your home. Simply comb the electronic Flea Zapper™ through the fur and it will detect and kill fleas. Use it just twice a week and you can eliminate all flea infestations for good!

Prevention and detection that really works

Results from the Flea Zapper™ are at least as good as conventional treatments with 97% fleas killed after just 24 hours, and it completely avoids the need for insecticides. The totally safe, compact, battery-operated Flea Zapper™ uses a tiny electronic impulse to kill fleas - yet to your pet it's an enjoyable part of normal grooming care.

Complete comfort for your pet - and you!

University tested* and approved by vets, clinical trials prove that the Flea Zapper™ cannot hurt animals in any way. Ideal for all short or medium haired pets, the comb's teeth are specially insulated so that even when it touches the skin, there is no risk of any discomfort.

Economical - and guaranteed effective

Just think - for only £29.95 (plus p&p) you can rid these pests from your pet and prevent them from spreading to carpets, furniture and bedding. Unlike costly shampoos, sprays, lotions and flea collars, the Flea Zapper™ is immediately effective and stays that way, so there's nothing else to buy.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

Try the Flea Zapper™ without risk for 14 days - if you don't agree that it's the best way to detect and beat fleas, simply return it for a full refund!

EXCLUSIVE OFFER - ORDER TODAY!

Don't miss this chance to do your pet a real favour. Put a stop to fleas NOW by calling 0845 6073291 (local call rate) with your credit/debit card details or post the completed form below.

THE JEWEL IN THE CROWN

STILL AN absolutely top-drawer drama series! I refer to Poldark, which was recently shown on UK Gold. All those involved in bringing Winston Graham's novels to the screen, whether before or behind the cameras, must still be proud of their work. British TV drama is surely the world's best, and Poldark remains one of the jewels in its crown.

John Higgins, e-mail

● Congratulations, John. You've won this month's £50 prize!

Poldark is due to be shown on UK Gold again in January.

VAMP VISION

I JUST love Angel and Buffy and have seen all the seasons; I originally missed season two of Buffy, so thanks Sky One for showing it. Will season three be shown next? And when will season five of Buffy and season two of Angel be shown?

Nafisa, e-mail

● Sky One tells us there are no plans at present to repeat season three of* Buffy, but both season five of Buffy and season two of Angel *start on Sky One in January.

FAIR PLAY?

THE COVERAGE of the Olympics was superb, but can you tell me why the Paralympics were not given the same coverage? There was the odd hour or so on terrestrial TV, but nothing on British Eurosport. Surely these games are just as important as the able-bodied games, and should be treated the same.

Carol Bissett, e-mail

● British Eurosport replies: 'We were very sorry that we could not cover the event live on British Eurosport, as we did not have the live rights to the Paralympic Games. We did, however, strive to gain the highlights of the event so that our viewers could catch the best of the action from Sydney, shown in three special programmes last month.'

There's a £50 prize for the star letter!

GO WEST

THEY cannot be serious! Sky One is going to let one of the fastest, funniest, most intelligent and adult shows slip away from them. I'm of course talking about the record-breaking Emmy-winner The West Wing. Politics isn't boring – this show proves just that. Why should Channel 4 reap the rewards of Sky's ground-breaking work? Sky should snap up the second series, otherwise it will be reduced to cheap and nasty fly-on-the-walls and half-baked comedies.

W Scully, Wirral

● Sky One replies: 'We tried to secure the second series of* The West Wing, but it was part of the Warner Bros. deal that included Friends and ER, *for which we lost the rights. Channel 4 has bought the second series and it will be shown first on their new channel, E4, next summer.' The first series will be repeated in January, on Channel 4.

THE GORGEOUS ROSS BURDEN!

I'M DEFINITELY off to New Zealand if all the men look like chef Ross Burden! He is so gorgeous! Is he married, and where does he live? I've suddenly become really interested in food. There goes my diet!

Virginia Pullen, London

● Ross Burden (pictured, right) is unmarried and lives in London.

GORILLA TALK

I JUST watched the last 15 minutes of A Conversation with Koko on National Geographic Channel (14 October), but I missed the beginning of it. Will it be shown again? I would also like to say what good documentary channels you have. Well done.

Miss Amy Hamilton-Williams, Lancashire

● National Geographic replies: 'A Conversation with Koko *is being shown again on 27 January 2001. We also have a night of programmes on our clever cousins on Sunday 10 December.'

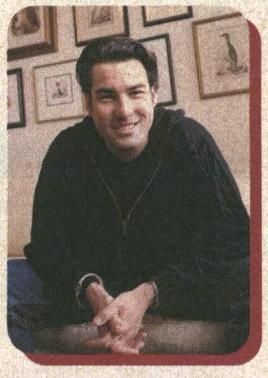
ENGLAND'S MET ITS MATCH

THE BUILD-UP to October's England v Germany match on Sky Sports was absolutely disgusting. The number of times I saw and heard about 1966 reduced me to two options: kick a hole in my TV, or jump out of the window. The sooner England accepts that it is an average footballing nation, the better. I would have thought you were used to getting beaten by now, you've had a lot of practise.

Christopher Thomson, Scotland



CUNNING COMEDY COMEBACK ...

IS BLACKADDER likely to be shown any time soon on UK Gold? I am a big fan and find there is a distinct lack of good British comedy for which Blackadder brilliantly compensates.

Jennie, e-mail

● UK Gold tells us that they aim to show* Blackadder *next year.

WORLD CLASS

THANK YOU to VH1 for showing the World Music Awards 2000, it was a music lover's heaven, with fantastic live performances from the likes of Savage Garden, Tina Arena and Ronan Keating. I missed the beginning of the ceremony though. Will it be repeated?

Kirsty Gordon, e-mail

● VH1 replies: 'You can catch* The World Music Awards 2000 again on Wednesday 27 December on VH1. And you can also see the My VH1 Music Awards *on Saturday 2 December at 6.00pm, where the categories are chosen by VH1 viewers.'

DRAGONBALL Z SAGA GOES ON

WHAT is Cartoon Network playing at with Dragonball Z? Why have they started showing the Freiza saga only four episodes into the brand new Cell saga? Now we have to wait about 80 episodes to get back to where they cut it off.

Sally Holt, e-mail

● Cartoon Network responds: 'Dragonball Z is one of our top shows and we know there are a lot of fans who want to see the new episodes. We currently have only 107 episodes of DBZ – which takes us up to the middle of the Trunk saga. You will be able to catch the last three episodes of the Trunk saga and the new Android Saga next year. Until then, fans can see all 107 episodes of DBZ so far in Toonami.' *See page 125 for details.

- Your repayments are guaranteed to remain the same
- There is no complicated paperwork
- We have no administration fees
- You can apply 24 hours a day - 7 days a week
- No-one beats our commitment to personal service and customer care.

HOW DO I APPLY?

You are welcome to apply for a loan if you:

- do not have any County Court Judgments
- are aged between 22 and 65
- have a bank or building society current account
- are resident in the UK.

Call us free on 0800•2•15000. We'll ask a few more questions about your home, work, bank or building society, income and outgoings. And we'll usually give you a decision there and then. It's that simple.

WHAT'S A TYPICAL EXAMPLE?

For a loan of £5,000 repayable over 36 months, each monthly repayment would be £161.18. The total amount payable would be £5,802.48. APR 10.4%.

For your peace of mind, we offer a Repayment Protection Plan ('RPP'), which covers your repayments in the event of accident, illness or even redundancy.
